Moscow Conference Is Periled

Nixon Confronts Soviets on Arms Aid

PRESIDENT NIXON

(UPI TELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has coupled the mining of North Vietnamese harbors with stern military steps intended to choke off Hanoi's war supplies—moves which imperiled his Moscow summit and rekindled domestic polemics on the Indochina war.

In a nationwide broadcast Monday night, Nixon delivered what amounted to an ultimatum for the Soviet Union to quit supplying arms and materiel to "the international outlaws of North Vietnam" within three days or face destruction of Soviet ships.

Besides risking collapse of summit talks with Soviet leaders due to begin in two weeks, Nixon's sea quarantine of North Vietnam posed the potential for perhaps the greatest confrontation of world superpowers since the Cuban missile crisis a decade ago.

The chief executive combined disclosure of the toughest military moves ever ordered by an American president in Vietnam with what some Washington officials viewed as a softening of peace terms:

An offer to withdraw all U.S. forces from Vietnam within four months after American prisoners of war are released and an internationally supervised ceasefire has begun.

In the hours following his address, Washington tensely posed was "to end this war and to win the kind of peace that will last."

And he openly sought, too, Soviet understanding of his actions.

"Let us not slide back toward the dark shadows of a previous age," Nixon said after citing U.S. moves toward nuclear arms limitation and other agreements.

Beaming his words directly at Moscow, where he is due to arrive May 27 for talks with Soviet leaders, he added:

"We are on the threshold of a new relationship that can serve not only the interests of our two countries but the cause of world peace. We are prepared to build this relationship. The responsibility is yours if we fail to do so."

Nixon said he faced a "clear, hard choice among three courses of action: immediate withdrawal of all American forces; continued attempts at negotiation; or decisive military action to end the war."

He conceded many Americans favor withdrawal now and said "from a political standpoint, this would be an easy choice for me to accept"—an oblique reference to the fact that his Vietnam policies loom as a major issue in his reelection campaign.

But he said immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces—slated to number 49,000 by July under the plan Nixon announced 12 days ago—would mean turning 17 million South Vietnamese "over to Communist terror and tyranny," and would leave no bargaining leverage to free American POWs.

The President said he would continue to seek a negotiated settlement. But he complained bitterly that the North Viet-names have flatly refused all public and private approaches, responding with "bombastic rhetoric... insolence and insult" and an escalation of the war.

So, he continued, "by simply getting out we would only worsen the bloodshed. By relying solely on negotiations we would give an intransigent enemy the time he needs to press his aggression on the battlefield."

"There is only one way to stop the killing, and that is to keep the weapons of war out of the hands of the international outlaws of North Vietnam."

As he ticked off the measures being implemented as he spoke, Nixon said any president who failed to act decisively now "would have betrayed the trust of his country and the cause of peace."

Within hours after his address, an armada of American aircraft were bombing rail lines and highways throughout North Vietnam.

U.S. Planes Drop Mines in Viet Ports

SAIGON (AP) — The biggest U.S. air and naval task force ever assembled in Vietnam began mining the entrances to Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports today and heavily bombed railroads and highways in North Vietnam.

The U.S. Command reported one North Vietnamese MIG jet shot down during the mining operation, the seventh MIG reported down in four days.

The command said the initial phases of the blockade announced by President Nixon Monday night "have been successfully accomplished" and the Navy planes that dropped the delayed-action mines to seal off the enemy's harbors had all returned safely to their carriers.

But the commander of a cruiser destroyer flotilla in the Tonkin Gulf, Rear Adm. Rembrandt C. Robinson, was killed Monday night and his chief of staff and his operations officer were missing when their helicopter developed engine trouble and crashed as they were trying to land aboard the cruiser Providence.

Robinson, 47, was the first admiral to die in the Vietnam war.

The Navy said it has marshaled a force of at least 60 ships—including five aircraft carriers with 350-400 warplanes, four cruisers and 30 destroyers—to mine all entrances to North Vietnamese ports, to cut off the delivery of war materials through the territorial waters of North Vietnam, and to sever rail and other communication lines ashore.

U.S. Command spokesmen said air strikes continued over North Vietnam today. They gave no details of the day's operations but said attacks in the North had nearly doubled during the past week to an average of about 200 strikes a day.

American planes returned to the Hanoi area Monday for the first time in three weeks.

As Nixon was addressing the American people, field reports reaching Saigon said a border ranger camp in South Vietnam's central highlands was overrun and hand-to-hand fighting was raging in another. This increased the threat to Kontum City, believed to be a key target in the North Vietnamese offensive.

The reports said the Poley Hue, 20 miles to the south.

Kleng camp 14 miles northwest of Kontum was overrun during the night and two companies of the defenders moved about half a mile to the northeast. But one company of about 100 border rangers and some of their families were reported killed or taken prisoner.

On the northern front below the demilitarized zone, U.S. sources said a massive air and artillery attack was carried out Monday just north of the My Chanh river defense line an attempt to destroy an enemy troop concentration threatening the North Vietnamese. This, he said was advocated years ago.

"I think that it is apparent from the President's remarks that the South Vietnamese Army is simply not hacking it against the armor fielded by the north."

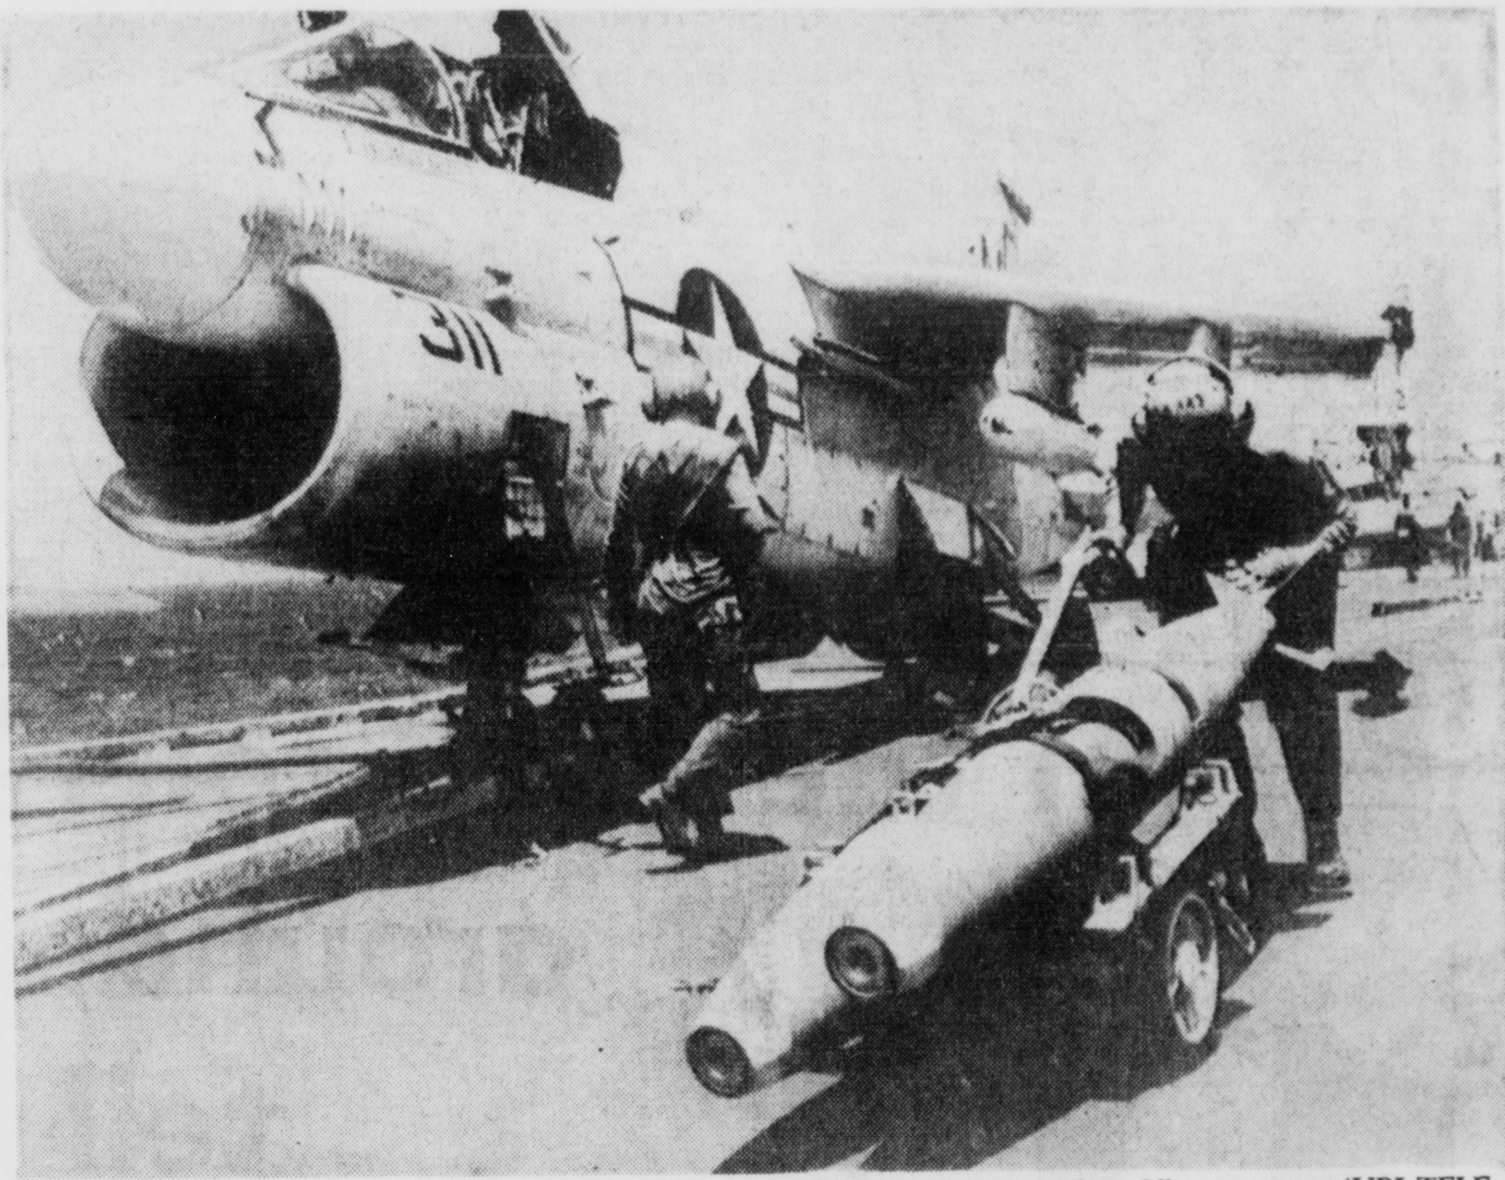

"The President is acting as Commander-in-Chief and it taking military steps that involve military risk and this obviously must concern all of us."

Congressmen Fish and Dow... Divergent Views

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Widely divergent views concerning President Nixon's announced course of action in Vietnam were expressed today by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and Congressman John G. Dow with Fish calling the pro-

'Naked, Aggressive Acts,'... Reds

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass accused President Nixon today of "naked aggressive acts" and violating international law in his actions against North Vietnam—and conceivably against Soviet shipping.

At the same time, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong spoke defiantly of what they called an ultimatum.

The Soviet news agency Tass distributed a six-paragraph dispatch under a Washington date-line about 12 hours after Nixon's announcement of plans to block the approaches to North Vietnamese ports.

Tass said that in addition to mining port entrances, Nixon gave orders for "American armed forces to strike blows on internal waters, rails and roads" in North Vietnam. It said "Nixon has tried to justify these naked aggressive acts, which mean an aggravation of American interference in Vietnam and the violation of norms of international law, as saving the lives of 60,000 American soldiers."

Tass said Nixon also blamed "a Communist threat to South Vietnam" for the actions, adding such a threat "is used by American propaganda to justify the acts of escalation of war against the Vietnam people."

Tass said Nixon promised the United States wants to end the war and take its troops home, "but the practical steps as well as the measures announced speak to the contrary."

The dispatch noted the President's assurances that his decisions were not aimed at a third country. While the President pointedly directed his remarks to the Soviet Union, Tass made no mention of specific references to the Soviet Union in the speech.

The Tass report contained no indication of what the Soviet response would be to the direct challenge posed to the Kremlin by Nixon's decisions.

The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong accused Nixon of laying down an ultimatum to the Vietnamese people. They rejected any such action.

The Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks called on the President to "immediately halt all of his acts of war ... and engage in serious negotiations."

In the first official reaction from Hanoi to the President's speech announcing the mining of North Vietnamese ports, a spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation to the talks said in Paris:

"As long as the Nixon administration continues its aggression in Vietnam, pursues its policy of 'Vietnamization' of the war and continues escalating the war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, the entire Vietnamese people, united as a single man, are resolved to pursue their struggle of resistance until obtaining their fundamental objectives: independence, freedom and peace."

Paltz Students Plan Action

By JON POWERS

NEW PALTZ Students at the State University College at New Paltz today made plans for a blockade of the New York State Thruway, in reaction to President Nixon's announced plans to blockade North Vietnamese ports.

At a meeting on campus, leaders of the latest protest movement also urged students to boycott classes for the next three days.

But, President John J. Neumaier, who made a surprise appearance at the rally, urged a course of action. A planned the students to keep the school open and concentrate, instead, on "non corrosive" actions, such as a massive letter-writing campaign and petitions.

"If you're going to get on an emotional binge it will make you feel better but it won't stop Nixon or the war," said Neumaier. Adding, "your fight will be with the college, rather than with what you're trying to change."

Saugerties Board Sets May 25 for Sports Program Vote

By JON POWERS

SAUGERTIES The interscholastic sports program in the Saugerties Central School District will get a second chance on May 25, after the Board of Education Monday night voted to re-submit the proposed $41,434.75 budget to the voters.

Last week, residents of the district narrowly defeated the proposition that would have earmarked funds to operate the district's interscholastic sports program. The proposition was turned down by a scant 40 vote margin.

But the Board of Education decided that last week's close vote warranted another attempt to allocate funds for the sports program. The decision, however, was not unanimous. The Board approved by a 5-3 margin a resolution to put the athletic option up for a new vote. It was reported that the three persons who voted against the measure were in favor of a $42,100 proposition to institute a child study program for slow learners, which was defeated by a 655 vote margin.

Referring to those two propositions, Board president Anthony Rizzo said today, "When there is a mandate, and it's not even close, then the people have spoken and there's not much point in rehashing the matter." Speaking as an individual and not as a spokesman for the Board of Education, Rizzo added, "I don't feel that, as a board, we should place the other two propositions on the ballot. The people have already given their mandate."

There had been some earlier talk of a petition being presented to the board requesting that the sports program be re-submitted to the voters. No petitions, however, were presented Monday night, although Superintendent of Schools Dexter O. Arnold said today that petitions may be presented to the board at a later date for the other two propositions. The proposed child study program, in fact, had been placed on the ballot after residents obtained the required number of signatures on a petition.

Fred Seither, Athletic Director for the Saugerties school district, said today that he was "very pleased and very elated" that the sports budget has been given a second chance. He said he was optimistic that it would be approved on May 25.

The Saugerties sports program involves eight varsity teams, three junior varsity teams and six junior high school teams for boys. About 400 boys are involved in the program. About 100 girls are also involved in three varsity interscholastic sports.

"The sports program affects a lot more people than just those participating on a team," said Seither. "It also affects the fans and supporters. Some of the kids who come to a game could be hanging around on a street corner instead."

Seither added that, despite the three week day, the sports department should have enough time to prepare its sports program for the 1972-73 school year. The resolution to re-submit the sports budget was offered by Peter Kramer and seconded by Robert Francello.

$85,706 for Sewage Plant

KINGSTON The city of Kingston has received an additional grant of $85,706 from the federal government toward the cost of construction of its primary waste water treatment facility on the Strand.

The grant, announced by the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation through a letter to Mayor Francis R. Koenig, will reduce the city's share on the project to $1,057,046.

Overall construction costs on the project remain at $2,856,878. The federal grant is based on three per cent of the overall cost or a total of $126,519. The city's share is reduced by $85,706 and the state's share is reduced by the remaining $40,813.

Under the original cost sharing agreement announced on Feb. 11 of this year, the federal and state governments paid 30 per cent of the project costs with the city paying the remaining 40 per cent. The federal government will now pay 33 per cent of the overall costs.

The Common Council, at its March 2 meeting, authorized bonds for the city's share of the construction costs. Contracts were signed on March 15.

Thalle Construction of Yonkers was low bidder on general construction at $2,235,000. Thomas O'Leary Electric Company of Kingston was low on the electric contract at $128,960 and Bank Brothers of Accord was low on the plumbing contract at $22,495 and on the heating and ventilation contract at $44,745.

Search Intensifies For Area Escapee

POUGHKEEPSIE An intensive manhunt for a Dutchess County jail escapee who fled from the institution last Thursday night during a recreation period, was centered in the Salt Point Turnpike area over the weekend after the man's prison blues were found in a residence that had been burglarized.

Detective Lieutenant Albert C. Traver of the sheriff's office said authorities uncovered evidence that the prisoner, Cecil Edward Shook, formerly from Pine Plains, had entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Becker, 46 Peach Road, Town of Poughkeepsie sometime late Friday. The fugitive apparently made off with some liquor and some of Becker's clothes.

Traver reported that Shook, 37, is now believed wearing gray slacks, a green sleeveless sweater, black shoes and a maroon plaid jacket. The clothes were allegedly taken during the burglary at Becker's where Shook's jail garb was found.

Town of Poughkeepsie police and a large detail of deputy sheriff's, assisted by state police who checked the Salt Point-Hyde Park area from the air using a helicopter, combed the entire area after learning of the burglary.

Shook had been serving a five-year term in federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., after his conviction for a burglary at the U. S. Post Office in the Dutchess County town of Barrytown, and the attempted intimidation of a Bard College co-ed by posing as a federal narcotics agent.

Police returned Shook to Dutchess County a week ago to face a burglary indictment handed down by a grand jury in October, 1970.

The prisoner escaped from the Dutchess County jail by prying loose a panel in the ceiling of his cell and climbing to the roof. Then he scaled down the outer walls and fled. He was missed at a routine bed-check last Thursday night.

Teletype alarms describe Shook as white, six feet tall, weight about 172 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes.

Rescuers Chip Their Way Through Mine

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI)—Using crowbars to smash their way past jagged rocks that thwarted a first rescue attempt, volunteers rode inside a two-man steel capsule today toward the bottom of Sunshine Mine where 58 men have been missing for a week.

Three rescue teams took one-hour shifts inside the tiny, bright yellow cylinder as they slowly chipped their way down the 1,100-foot ventilation shaft. They made about 200 feet in two hours after starting at 11 p.m. PDT Monday. The volunteers halted the torpedo-like device repeatedly to knock off loose boulders with their crowbars. The capsule was pulled to the top of the shaft each hour and the crews changed because of the exhausting crowbar work.

"They're playing it safe," said U.S. Bureau of Mines Director Elbert Osborn. He estimated it would take six or seven hours before one of the three teams maneuvered the capsule to the bottom.

Their goal was the 4,800-foot level of the mine, where the missing men were believed trapped by smoke and poisonous gases from the underground fire that erupted last Tuesday in the nation's biggest silver mine. The smoke and fumes killed 35 men.

Mine officials held out slight hope to friends and relatives waiting in cold, drizzly weather under a makeshift tent outside the mine's entrance.

They said some of the trapped miners could have survived in fresh air at the mine bottom a mile down. However, the officials said earlier that a flare-up of the week-old fire Monday dimmed the chances of any survivors as more smoke and carbon monoxide spewed through the mine. The crowd at the entrance grew during the night as news of the rescue efforts with the capsule spread.

All immediate hopes of rescuing the missing men rested on the capsule, one of two shipped to the northern Idaho mine from Nevada by the Atomic Energy Commission. A slender 17-foot-long capsule, which was twice lowered easily to the bottom of four-foot-diameter shaft No. 12 with sandbags aboard, was replaced by the shorter, wider cylinder at the request of the volunteers. The flare-up Monday of the underground fire, which hasn't been located yet in the mine's 100-mile maze of shafts and tunnels, further hampered the rescue efforts.

Israel Refuses Ultimatum by Hijackers

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Israel today refused to comply with an ultimatum by four Arab hijackers who threatened to blow themselves up and all 101 persons aboard a Belgian jetliner unless Israeli officials release 100 guerrilla comrades. The men, armed with guns and explosives, hijacked the Sabena Airlines Boeing 707 Monday after a stopover in Vienna en route from Brussels to Tel Aviv, where the plane sat today in a remote area at Lod International Airport. They set a deadline of 5:30 a.m. today (11:30 p.m. EDT Monday) for compliance with their demands but it passed without airport officials saying there was no indication, at least for the time being, that the guerrillas intended to carry out their threat of blowing up the plane with themselves. The 91 passengers and 10 crewmen aboard.

"We will ignore the ultimatum from the terrorists," pulled up outside the passenger terminal. A communique from Beirut identified the hijackers as members of the Black September Movement, named for Hussein's army decimated guerrillas in Jordan. Francois Peres, an International Red Cross official, spent an hour negotiating with the leader of the four guerrillas, identified by Israel's national radio as Captain Rafah. The transportation minister said Rafah requested the session.

Three hours before the ultimatum expired, airport officials said a radio message from the plane indicated the guerrillas wanted the plane prepared for flight. But the national radio said the pilot, who was allowed outside briefly to check the aircraft, reported a failure in the hydraulic system. The radio also said the plane had flat tires, rendering take-off impossible.

The transportation minister said there were 60 men, 30 women, one child and 10 crew members aboard the plane. Maintenance men connected a special generator to the plane at sunrise to keep the occupants air conditioned.

National Dock Strike Looms After Pay Board Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—A national dock strike looms today as a possibility following a Pay Board order to cut 15 cents an hour from raises won by 50,000 East and Gulf Coast longshoremen.

The board voted 6-1 Monday night to reject a 70-cent raise in straight hourly pay. It said it would accept all fringe benefits and no more than 55 cents an hour in straight pay, which is still somewhat more than standard board regulations would otherwise allow.

President Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association declined to comment on the action.

So did the West Coast leader, President Harry Bridges of the Independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. Since the board cut back a raise for Bridges' 13,000 men last month, he has indicated strongly he would lead them on strike if Gleason does the same in East and Gulf Coast ports.

Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt said he expected the East Gulf workers to look over the cutback, "be disappointed, and then go along with what has become the law of the land."

The cut brings down the raise in straight pay from 15 per cent to 12 per cent, Boldt said. However, the board usually considers the total package of wages, work rules changes in most ports that would save the employers money. He didn't say how the board arrived at the 55-cent figure, but a board spokesman said it is about the same as the West Coast dockers were allowed.

The West Coast dockers were trimmed from 72 cents an hour to 40 cents, but also received full approval of a fatter fringe package.

Rhinebeck Evaluation Report Explained

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
The official release of the Middle States Schools' Association evaluation report on the Rhinebeck High School was explained to a large crowd of district residents Monday evening, with the predominant theme seemingly that college-bound youngsters were well taken care of while others might be better served.

High School Principal Ed Kane summarized his comments on the report and fielded questions from the audience, with the aid of several department chairmen and Board of Education President Hans Baehm.

And a major point not touched in the report, but vocalized by several persons, was how to motivate students. Kane said, "Motivation is the big problem," adding that it is "getting more difficult . . . as students question procedures."

The report was essentially self-criticism, with a three-day intensive evaluation by the MSSA.

Kane noted that homogeneous grouping of students according to academic achievement had been discontinued because it was not found to be effective and because it is a "stigmatized system."

Regarding curriculum, the report summarized, "Instructional activities are generally prosaic. No concerted assessment of needs or their relationship to offerings is evident. . . ."

The school was commended for its "generally strong preparation for the college bound," (comprising about 75 per cent of those graduating in some form); an "overall superior pupil-teacher ratio;" and its BOCES participation.

Included among recommendations were "an extensive, in-depth study of curricular offerings be undertaken with an eye to meeting the needs of all students . . . and greater attention be given to providing instruction for various levels of ability."

Several recommendations have already been acted upon in some capacity, such as the suggestion of the development of a curriculum council and the hoped-for addition of several courses such as psychology and sociology beyond the state syllabus.

Under the heading "student activities program" it was asked why no boys' intramural sports program had been developed while there had been one for girls.

Kane responded that during the winter months there was trouble finding space, and during the spring there was really little active participation in interscholastic sports by juniors and seniors.

The guidance program came in for a generally good report, noting especially the "creation of an atmosphere where students feel free to drop in the Guidance Office for information or just to chat with the counselors."

It was suggested, under "school facilities," that the community give serious thought to a new high school. Problems include no auditorium separate from the gymnasium, very limited space in many areas including the cafeteria, and a less than acceptable level of appearance of the interior of the high school building. A committee is presently meeting to formulate building needs study, and the Board of Education is planning to refurbish the interior walls and ceilings where necessary. And dealing with "school staff and administration," the school was commended for the retention of good staff, good relations with students, and some inspiration to high academic achievements. The committee recommended, in part, that investigations be made into the attitudes of the citizenry, the professional staff, and the student body with regard to the decision-making process and that department chairmen's duties be expanded to include all areas of instruction. There is a problem in community involvement with several attempts at bridging it having thus far failed, according to Kane.

Kane also made another plea for an assistant principal, as also recommended in the report, to "relieve the principal of routine matters so curriculum development and supervisory activities can be pursued."

The Board of Education, in a prior meeting, accepted a Board policy calling for providing budget funds for "all foreseeable expenses" in building maintenance.

Questions and suggestions on the upcoming budget were accepted after the evaluation report.

Leahville Query Continues; Some Residents Hire Attorney

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ
A group of approximately 50 New Paltz residents has retained an attorney to represent its interests in the question of the approval of the proposed Leahville hamlet.

The lawyer, Kingston attorney Frederick D. Kaufman, has written two letters to the town board, and Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello as the board's chairman, requesting information on three topics concerning Leahville. (The proposal on Leahville is for garden apartments, town houses, commercial centers, etc.)

The letters were given to The Freeman through an intermediary not part of the group, and the group members have declined to be identified.

The letters requested a definite statement of the hamlet proposed, a copy of the report in which the planning board recommended approval of the proposed hamlet, and a statement as to whether the proposed plan conforms substantially to zoning ordinances and "statements relevant to hamlets made in the Town of New Paltz Planning Study."

The planning study referred to by Kaufman is the Master Plan of 1966, which the town never formally adopted.

Kaufman's first letter to the board was dated April 24. His second was dated May 5. The May 5 letter noted that the April 24 letter had not yet been answered, but said "perhaps this letter is premature, your (Moriello's) board not having time to respond in unison to the requested information."

"Please allow that my clients are impatient and wish you as their representatives not to abandon them," ended the May letter.

Kaufman's May 5 letter and a letter from New Paltz Town Attorney Wendell Harp apparently crossed in the mail. Harp's letter was dated May 4, and he said he wrote it to Kaufman at the request of Moriello.

In the letter, Harp informed Kaufman that the hamlet proposal had been sent back to the planning board for the planning board to secure more information about the plan and revision of it from the developer.

The developer of the proposed hamlet is Jack Erman of New Paltz. Erman's proposal sailed through its public hearing with minimal opposition, but since then considerable resistance to the proposal has developed.

Erman is seeking a change to the hamlet designation under New Paltz' zoning laws for a 260-acre tract to the north of the village. The zoning change can only be granted by the town board.

Erman's plans for the tract included 1200 apartment units, 400 town houses, and 400 single family dwellings. It figures out to about 5-6,000 people on the site.

The Erman plan is supported by Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, which has called it "an alternative to urban sprawl". Opponents of the plan say it is just "too many people", and they don't want the zoning change approved on the basis of the present plans.

Kaufman said his clients were satisfied with Harp's reply, which said the board would make the information public before it made a decision. Kaufman said the next move of his and his clients would depend on the planning board recommendation.

Moriello said Monday that the plan had been returned to the planning board, they would review it and make their recommendations, and the town board would make the recommendations known before they acted on them. "The public has been informed as to every action the town board has taken, and always will be," said the supervisor.

A member of the residents' group, who declined to be identified, said his group would be satisfied to "stop the hamlet" as it is presently proposed.

He said he personally would like to see the town investigate the possibilities of a Fair, "We Are Young," shown at Montreal's EXPO and the building in the town. He said this might allow the town to "be more selective as to how it is developed."

Kaufman said his clients were contemplating no legal action at present; if they were unsatisfied with the town board's final decision, said Kaufman, they could institute an Article 78 proceeding to seek to have the town's decision reversed.

Insured Mail Claims... New System Devised

KINGSTON

The U.S. Postal Service has instituted a new streamlined system for settling insured mail claims.

Kingston Postmaster Oscar Newkirk said that the new system reduces the number of steps in processing claims from eight to three and speeds up the process from an average of 60 days under the old system to a matter of two weeks or less in most cases.

"It cuts out about 90 per cent of the clerical work done under the old system," Newkirk said. "In most cases the Postal Service was spending more for clerical work handling the claims than the articles were worth themselves."

Mailers submitting claims should ask for the new Form 3812 from their post offices. Only one post office, instead of two, will be involved under the new system, with either the mailer or the addressee submitting a mailing receipt or the damaged package to his post office.

Heart of the new system is the new computerized Postal Data Center in St. Louis, Mo., where claims from the entire system will be centralized. The claimant will fill in the new Form 3812, which is then mailed directly to the other party for completion, along with a pre-addressed envelope for mailing it to the Postal Data Center.

Tivoli Sewer Tax....

....Some Opposition Heard

TIVOLI
Some opposition to the Village of Tivoli's proposal to initiate a sewer tax this summer was heard at Monday night's Village Board meeting in an otherwise uneventful session.

Trustee William Bain told The Freeman that the opposition felt that everyone in the village will be eventually using the system, and thus should share in the cost.

The Board took a stand last month that only those using the system should pay for it.

The crux of the matter is that the village is presently installing an expensive secondary sewer age system. Some persons feel that the amortization of these bonds will unfairly be felt by those using the system when others, who hook on in several years through necessity, will miss these larger payments. This plan has not yet been finalized. It is expected that it will be figured on a water consumption basis, beginning July 1.

There have been no reported developments in selling the village-owned 40 acres, known as Tivoli Acres, and the Board is maintaining its asking price of $2,000 per acre.

Film Program... 'Russia' Scheduled at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ

The first uncensored film ever made of the Soviet Union will be shown in New Paltz on Wednesday in the Main Building Auditorium of the State University of New York at 8 p. m.

The director, producer and photographer of "Russia," Theodore Holcomb, will introduce and discuss the film, rated by Forum Magazine one of the ten best pictures of the year.

Admission to the showing will be free. The event is sponsored by The Russian Club and the Student Government Association Film Committee.

Director-producer Holcomb, producer of award winning films on Africa, Japan and Nepal, worked on the Academy Award winning film, "To Be Alive," shown at the Johnson Wax Pavilion at the N. Y. World's Fair. "We Are Young," shown at Montreal's EXPO and the building in the town. He said this might allow the town to "be more selective as to how it is developed."

Kaufman said his clients were contemplating no legal action at present; if they were unsatisfied with the town board's final decision, said Kaufman, they could institute an Article 78 proceeding to seek to have the town's decision reversed.

Abortion, No-Fault...Close Votes Seen

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The law agreed the vote would be decided by less than a handful of the 150 lawmakers. And, in the Senate, Bernard Gordon, R-Peekskill, made one last bid to pick up the 3-4 votes needed to pass the much-amended no-fault bill sought by Governor Rockefeller.

Both bills were certain to trigger lengthy debates before going to a rollcall late today. The GOP leaders had set 2 p.m. today for adjourning the session, but with last minute snags on parochial aid and off-track betting, many lawmakers were skeptical the session could end before Friday. Assemblyman Edward F. Crawford, R-Oswego, appeared to be within six votes of the 76 needed to pass his abortion repealer.

"There are still about a dozen who haven't committed themselves," Crawford said. He said President Nixon's endorsement of repeal "can't hurt us."

Assemblywoman Constance E. Cook, R-Ithaca, agreed "it's right on the line."

There are four or five who won't commit themselves, and a few others who are still undecided," he said. Although Rockefeller has insisted he would veto the repeal bill, there still appeared to be only mild support for his "compromise" lowering the permissible time for abortions from 24 weeks to the first 18 weeks of pregnancy.

In the Senate, Gordon's final concession was to cut from 30 to 15 days the length of time a person need be seriously disabled before being allowed to sue for extra damages in a no-fault system.

Sen. Thomas Laverne, R-Rochester, the author of the rival no-fault bill, denounced Gordon's plan as "a fraud."

On the other key topics: Parochial Aid: The bill for $33 million in new parochial aid was suddenly recalled from the Assembly to the Senate Monday. Senate GOP Leader Earl V. Brydges was attempting to meet Rockefeller's objections to one provision allowing tax credits for parents of non-public school students. The governor reportedly threatened to veto the measure if it contains the credits (subtracting a certain amount from the state tax bill). He favors deductions (subtracting from income before figuring the tax), but it requires a complicated new formula.

Off-track: Western New York lawmakers have demanded a regional exemption as the drive for voting on the proposed one-year moratorium on new off-track betting plans. The exemptions to family care parents in the Mental Hygiene Department would let the Erie-Monroe-Niagara County area submit new plans for off-track systems. State Commission on Gambling possibly a regional hook up hat a study legalization of casinos could include everything from and other forms of betting.

State Supplemental Budget Contains Workers' Pay Raise

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The workshop at Attica, a $5 million modernization of Ossining, and to approve a $38 million supplemental budget that included correction centers.

Altogether, the supplemental program calls for $85 million in new spending. Only $38 million is needed to balance it, however, because of several savings, small cuts and the anticipated receipts from the state lottery nearly doubled until the first week of next because of the 50-cent weekly drawings.

The supplemental budget, which will bring the state's budget up to $7.9 billion for the 1972-73 fiscal year, was approved 121-23 in the Assembly Monday night.

The budget includes a $26.2 million construction program in the state prison system, not all of which will be spent immediately. Included are a new gymnasium and vocational penditures and the additional million in the coming year, the revised fiscal plan predicted. This is an increase of nearly $30 million over the $40 million originally projected by the governor.

Other appropriations in the supplemental budget included: —$209,000 to establish offices in Buffalo and Albany for the welfare inspector general.

—$335,000 in aid to non-public colleges for Medaille, St. Thomas Aquinas and Siena College, which were recently determined eligible for "Bundy" aid.

—$500,000 to fund educational television councils in the state at last year's levels.

—$3.2 million in additional state scholarship funds, including $1.7 million to restore alternate awards if the original winners decide not to accept the scholarships.

—$6 million to finance the recently negotiated pay raise for professionals at the State University. This contract was negotiated separately from that for the bulk of state workers.

—$3.3 million to increase payments to family care parents in the Mental Hygiene Department to $195 per month.

Farm Workers Union Bill.... Major Lobbying Continues

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — Major lobbying powers continued their efforts today to promote or defeat a bill that would let farm workers organize into unions but would not allow them to strike or call boycotts.

The measure was withdrawn by its sponsor Monday after it ran into a barrage of opposition in the Assembly.

The sponsor, Assemblyman Frank Walkley, R-Castile, who will become commissioner of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets next month, said he hoped to "clear up some misunderstanding" about the bill. Walkley said he was not yet certain whether he would bring the measure up again this session.

The State Farm Bureau is actively supporting the bill while the State AFL-CIO is strongly opposed. The Farm Bureau is attempting to counter expected organizing efforts this summer by the militant United Farm Workers union.

In other developments in the legislature Monday: —The Senate approved a bill that would set up a five-member commission to oversee community antenna television (CATV) in the state. The Assembly passed an amendment to the same bill that would protect present owners and prevent cable TV from holding exclusive program rights. The Senate was expected to act on the amendment today.

Both houses passed a measure that would untie the freeze on community college construction. The bill allows schools to contract with the State Dormitory Authority to construct the buildings, which would be paid for through rentals, student fees and state funds.

The Assembly passed the $38 million supplemental budget, 121-23, and sent it to the Senate for expected passage today. The bill provides for projects not originally foreseen in the main budget. The supplemental, for instance, implements a four per cent pay raise for most state workers.

The Senate approved and sent to the Assembly a resolution calling on Congress to deal with aid to parochial schools.

Final passage was given in the Senate to measures that would continue the 7.5 per cent ceiling on home mortgage interest rates until September, 1973; lessen the evidence rules in rape cases, and permit a police officer to take public intoxication cases home or to a treatment center.

During the debate on the farm workers bill, Walkley said it was needed to protect "highly perishable crops."

"If the strike is prolonged through the harvest, the crop would be lost. This would be an economic loss, not only to the farmer, but to the employee," Walkley argued.

Assemblyman Harvey L. Strelzin, D-Brooklyn, charged that by denying the workers the right to strike the bill would create "slave labor for slave wages."

Candidate Hinchey Cites State Legislature Action

SAUGERTIES for no-fault auto insurance. Maurice D. Hinchey Jr., reform of the state abortion candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Assembly from the 101st District today pointed for the need for legislative reform and called attention to the haste and confusion in which the state legislature is conducting its business in these final days as it rushes to adjournment.

"The state legislature returned to Albany yesterday, but not with the intention of engaging in reasoned debate over the many issues before it of great importance to New York State citizens. After the usual slow start when sessions came but once a week and lasted only a few hours, the state legislature has suddenly become caught up in a frenzied push for early adjournment, keeping its wasteful tradition of crowding most major items into the final days," states Hinchey.

"A check of the important decisions yet to be made would make some wonder just what the legislature has accomplished since the special session last December. Among the issues takes a good place to be decided are proposals start," Hinchey concludes.

Reform of the state abortion law, cable television controls, legalized gambling and proposals for sweeping reform of the state's court system.

"The rush for adjournment increases the risk that bad bills will sweep to passage, while good ones die an unnoticed death. Even so vital a task as enacting the state's supplemental budget will probably not get the careful consideration it deserves. The speed with which bills are passed in these final hectic days make it impossible for legislators to be familiar enough with them to vote intelligently. The result is waste, inefficiency and special benefits for favored groups. All of which have serious consequences for the state's taxpayers. If the state legislature is going to meet the needs of the people of this state, then it must submit to serious reforms. Replacing the rush and confusion of these final days with reasoned and steady completed since the special session last December. Among the issues takes a good place to be decided are proposals start," Hinchey concludes.

The News Is Bad

No one wants to see American combat troops back in the thick of the fighting in Vietnam, not the Americans, not the South Vietnamese, not the Viet Cong and their allies the North Vietnamese. Of course, each has his own peculiar reason. But the majority of people of this country are unhappy that the troop withdrawals quickly reached a point that encouraged North Vietnam to throw all its military strength into the fray and showed tragic chinks in the Vietnamization program on which we had relished so much.

It was thought that the near approach of the rainy season would halt the invasion, but it only hastened it. It came in such strength that it bowled over the South Vietnamese divisions left below the demilitarized zone, defending the northern borders. Quang Tri's fall foreshadowed the loss of the old imperial capital of Hue. Many say that is the aim of North Vietnam, to make of Hue the capital of a new buffer state held by the Viet Cong. They have time to effect that gain and rest there through the rainy season.

In terms of the human misery the invasion has brought, there is no clear measurement. We know that old and young have been brutally killed if they did not get out of the way of the invaders. We know that the refugees crowded into one city after another, only to see the foe overrun their hide-aways before they had a chance to get their breath. We know that the invasion has been a cruel climax to two decades of fighting.

North Vietnam has not been able to beat the Americans in the field. They are beating the American-trained South Vietnamese. Our air and sea support has stemmed the assault, but has not deflected it. North Vietnam has built the power she wants, to deal from strength at the peace talks. That, and embarrassing President Nixon in Moscow, formed their aims.

Mr. Nixon still has his sea and air power to use on enemy buildups. He has an argument in exchange for our prisoners of war. But it is not as strong as the stonewall defense that Americans have held for eight years.

Not Decontrol

Exemption of one-quarter of the economy from wage and price controls was a necessary first step to concentrate stabilization efforts in the field of big business and big labor. But Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, immediately warned that the exemptions were not a sign that the government had started to decontrol the economy, and "compliance with the standards and policies of the economic stabilization program is still expected."

In other words, it was found that the work load was too big for the various agencies—the Pay Board staff, the Price Commission staff, the Internal Revenue Office staff and the overall Cost of Living staff—to cope with enforcement of the whole program. It was decided to free a quarter of the workers, in refining the economic stabilization program, but at the same time put these 19 million workers and their employers on their honor.

Small business, with 60 or fewer employees, took too much of the time and effort of the small staffs in the program. The Council expects the wages and prices to be effectively controlled through competition and to do their part in reducing inflation. Its decision was not "a step toward decontrol, but rather as a move to eliminate unnecessary red tape."

Even so, the medical and construction industries were specifically exempted from the new rule. They will still be subject to constant investigation because they both obviously contribute to inflation. Others that use the exemption to contribute to inflation will find themselves under similar restraints.

OXFORD "LIBERATED"—The decision of five men's colleges at Oxford University in England to admit their first women undergraduates experimentally for five years in 1974 ends 750 years of tradition. The other three Oxford Colleges will open their faculties to women teaching fellows. Ivy league colleges in this country led the way.

Health Data and Insurance

WASHINGTON — The health records of more than 11 million individuals are kept in a secret data bank which, at the press of a button, can furnish insurance companies with the latest doctor-patient information on insurance applicants.

Some 760 life insurance companies have access to these computerized files, which are maintained in Boston by the Medical Information Bureau (MIB). The MIB, as it is known to insiders, collects and compiles individual health reports for insurance companies. These reports are taken from physicians' examinations, hospital records and government files.

The information is fed into the MIB's $8 million computers which, thereafter, can "flag" individuals who may want life insurance but whose "medical impairments" make them poor risks.

Since life insurance companies write the bulk of all commercial accident and health insurance, the MIB data can also pinpoint people in poor health who want medical insurance.

In the trade, such people are known as "clunkers." Once they have been "flagged" by the MIB computer, they can be refused

Health Risks

The existence of this data bank casts grave doubts on the insurance industry's public pronouncements.

"We believe comprehensive health insurance should be available to all citizens, regardless of ability to pay," J. Henry Smith, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, testified before Congress last October.

The Medical Information Bureau, however, serves to winnow out the people who need health insurance the most. Smith made no mention of the MIB, nor of the fact that his company is an active subscriber.

A recent MIB document, which was mailed directly to the presidents of the member companies, which provides some intriguing insights into the operation of the data bank.

"All operations related to the automated checking service," the report states, "are fully computerized at the Boston site which is linked to about 760 member company locations... in the United States and Canada."

"The central MIB file contains medical impairment records on about 11 million individuals and is stored in the computer memory bank for access by member companies. Each day about 80,000 inquiries are submitted for checking against the central computer file."

The insurance moguls have kept quiet about their sophisticated data bank. Many companies disguise their MIB dues.

MIB's headquarters are located in Greenwich, Conn., but the city telephone directory carries no listing for the MIB. To reach the office, you have to know the name of the MIB's executive director, Joseph C. Wilberding.

My associate Joseph Spear reached Wilberding, who insisted the MIB existed solely for the benefit of life insurance companies, not to sort out profitable health insurance prospects.

Of course, life insurance companies also write about 85 per cent of all private health and accident insurance.

Footnote: The antitrust implications of the data bank are under investigation by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., whose antitrust subcommittee will open a series of hearings into the health insurance industry this week.

Nixon Diplomacy

President Nixon and Premier Leonid Brezhnev, in a personal exchange of letters, broke the deadlock over strategic disarmament.

The secret SALT talks had been hung up over the Soviet refusal to freeze submarine-based missile systems. The Russians wanted to leave the subject for future negotiation.

The position of both nations undoubtedly was based on the fact that the United States is far ahead of the Soviets in the production of missile-carrying submarines.

The U.S. Navy now has 41 Polaris-Poseidon missile subs, but no more are being built. The Soviets have 25 missile submarines in the water and probably plan to build a fleet of 60 or 70.

This was the biggest roadblock to an interim agreement. Lieutenant General R. B. Allison spoke of the problem at the SALT talks with Russian Gen. Lt. K. A. Trusov. Afterward, Allison called his remarks to Washington.

"I then said that the major difference on which I wished to remark was the matter of Soviet unwillingness to include SLBMs in an interim freeze," he telegraphed. "I made clear the U.S. position on importance of including SLBMs pointing out that the very concept of a freeze on offensive missilery made it clear that both of the major missile systems, land-based ICBMs and (seabased) SLBMs, must be included."

The Kremlin finally gave in, however, after a personal exchange between Nixon and Brezhnev.

One-City Conventions

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The transfer from San Diego to Miami Beach of the Republican National Convention, which starts on August 21, is something that will benefit the press and television and radio and other organizations which must cover both conventions. With the Democratic convention to be held there in early July, they now can set up their facilities in one place without incurring extra transportation expenses to send equipment across the country in addition to the journey to Miami Beach.

Political conventions entail a great deal of work in preparation for the press and television and radio. Special facilities have to be installed, with personnel on hand to operate them. Telephone and telegraph services have to be expanded. Hotel reservations have to be made weeks in advance, and housing delegates and other constituents a big problem for the hotels.

There have been times when both parties have held their conventions in the same city—Chicago and Philadelphia, for example. The convenience has been noted by many who are not connected with the political parties but who perform certain functions related to the conventions. Most of the newsmen are in favor of both conventions every presidential-election year being held in one city where ample facilities are available.

The American people, of course, will be able to watch both conventions on television. Parts of them will be dull, especially as some of the procedures may be monotonous and speeches too long. The routine of roll calls always takes a lot of time, but the balloting often provokes great excitement. The public will undoubtedly want the television networks to keep their coverage going constantly during important moments of the conventions.

It appears that there will be little opposition to President Nixon's renomination, and this may diminish interest in the Republican convention. But the Democratic gathering promises to be a real contest throughout.

The impression prevails that all presidential-preference primaries which have been held and those that are still scheduled to take place definitely instruct the delegates on how they should vote throughout the convention. But several of the states make this ruling only for the first or second ballots or until the delegates are released by the candidate to whom they are pledged. If there is a deadlock or a failure to get a majority in the first two roll calls, the delegates can move to some other candidate.

So the nominee of the Democratic convention may not be known until after several ballots unless by the time the sessions begin one candidate is clearly in the lead. The outlook at present is for a close battle between Senator George McGovern of South Dakota and Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, with Governor George Wallace of Alabama having substantial support.

But there are more primaries to be held, and the results may change the picture in favor of or against the various Democratic candidates between now and convention time. Certainly the indications are that there will be a real struggle among the leading candidates and no likelihood of a choice until at least two or three roll calls at the convention. This has happened before, and in a sense it can enhance the prestige of the winner because it gives him a hard-earned victory.

Perhaps the most significant thing about the primaries thus far is the fact that Governor Wallace has rolled up lots of votes in different states. North and South. The theory is that voters found an opportunity to express protest, especially on forced school busing, by casting a ballot for the Alabama governor. If has been reported that some of these were a "crossover" of Republicans, many of whom may have no intention of voting for the Democratic ticket in the final election in November. But there has been no actual contest on the Republican side in the primary elections, so there was a chance to show dissent on subjects like busing.

If Governor Wallace decides to run on an independent ticket, he would undoubtedly pick up votes from both parties, as was the case in 1968. But, in the long run, it seems likely that the votes cast in his behalf would be largely subtracted from the Democratic rather than the Republican party.

History of 'Vietnamization'

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration's fondness for slogans and sales pitches is as self-evident as it is pardonable. This Administration, after all, has more advertising men than academicians, but one of its leading slogans did not come from an account salesman, but from one of its intellectuals.

The word "Vietnamization" was coined by Elliot L. Richardson, then Undersecretary of State, on April 30, 1969, in a television interview with Joseph Kraft. Discussing the strengthening of the South Vietnamese Army, Richardson said: "I think basically what we want to do is step up and give continually higher priority to what you might call the 'Vietnamization' of the war."

The word was quickly picked up by Defense Secretary Laird and President Nixon, but also by others.

Vo Nguyen Giap, defense minister for North Vietnam, said on December 21:

"Vietnamization will become a tragedy not only for the puppet army of South Vietnam but also for the American troops. The U.S. and puppet troops, which have both taken severe beatings, will get yet harder ones."

But Vice President Spiro T. Agnew visited the war zone and said on Feb. 5, 1970, that "I have learned that 'Vietnamization' is not just a word; more and more, it has become a fact; and it has stimulated the self-respect and self-confidence so necessary to any army in the field."

Two days earlier, Sen. J. William Fulbright had asked, "What is the likelihood that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese will allow Vietnamization to proceed without trying to shatter it through a new offensive? What will we do if Vietnamization fails, if the South Vietnamese Army, left on its own, should come near to collapse again, as in 1964? Would we then send American troops back in and reescalate the war?"

On May 11, 1970, Secretary Laird provided a partial answer: "Through Vietnamization or negotiation or some combination, we are going to achieve our objective of self-determination for the South Vietnamese people. Vietnamization is one of the cornerstones of the Nixon Doctrine, and I believe that I will succeed."

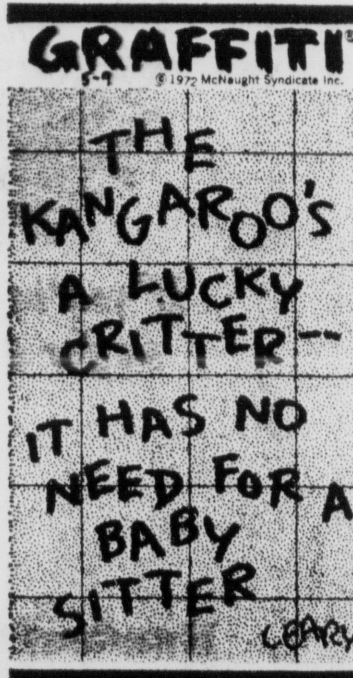

Laird's predecessor, Clark M. Clifford, concluded on November 8 that "Vietnamization is not a plan for peace. All it means is that we can gradually reduce our manpower there and turn the burden of the war over to the South Vietnamese. But the war goes on. Vietnamization is a plan for perpetual war."

And what of the man who coined the Richardsonian word? He is now Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, astride a bureaucracy that creates convoluted Latinisms like "Vietnamization" every day. "Whether the South Vietnamese have been strengthened enough now hangs in the balance," Richardson said the other day. "But as far as the participation by indigenous South Vietnamese rebels is concerned, South Vietnam has clearly prevailed in the civil war, if there ever was a civil war, as people are fond of claiming. It never looked like one to me."

As for coining the word, Richardson recalls that "Maybe it's the first public use of it. A lot of people used it at National Security Council meetings at the time."

For the North Vietnamese, Huang Tung, the editor of Hanoi's leading newspaper, seemed poetically calm on Jan. 3, 1970, when he talked of the word: "If Vietnamization means that some more millions of us must die to make Vietnam free, we will accept it. Mr. Nixon has forces made up of steel and iron. Our forces are made of water. Water is not so aggressive and violent as iron and cools down steel."

Goslin Starts County Clerk Campaign

KINGSTON
Fred Goslin, Ulster County Conservative candidate for county clerk, kicked off his campaign recently at the Lions Club Exposition in Kingston with the theme, "People Before Party."

Former town chairman of the Wawarsing Democrats, Goslin recently resigned that post because he "believes that a candidate for public office or an official serving in a public office cannot do that public office justice due to possible conflicts of interest as party chairman.

Goslin announced resignation was apparently aimed at the only other candidate for county clerk in the November election, Republican Albert Spada who serves as county clerk and chairman of the Ulster GOP. The Democrats did not field a candidate for clerk this year.

One of the original organizers of the Conservative Party in

New York State nine years ago, Goslin, who owns the Montgomery Sales Catalog Agency at 172 Canal Street, Ellenville, has been in top supervision most of his life. He formerly served as division sales manager for Grand Union's Blue Stamp Division and was responsible for the building of a church behind the walls of the Eastern Correctional Institution at Napanoch with the use of blue stamps during the 1960's.

As an employee of Grand Union he was responsible for hiring, training of personnel in the Blue Stamp Division.

Goslin was the organizer of a First Aid School in Ellenville and formerly taught area state police scuba diving before the police organized its own scuba diving teams.

He is a veteran of World War II having served with the Seabees in the Pacific Theatre. He is a life member of the Disabled American Veterans, VFW, past commander and past county commander of the American Legion. He is a five-year member of Napanoch Fire Commission, member of the Seabee Veterans 40 & 8, National Rifle Association, Loyal Knight, Elks, and honorary member of Eastern Correctional Facility.

He and his wife are the parents of three daughters and reside in Napanoch.

Fish Offers a Bill To Name FBI Building For J. Edgar Hoover

WASHINGTON—the Bureau was transformed Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr. has introduced legislation to designate the new Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters as the "J. Edgar Hoover Building" in honor of the late FBI Director who died Tuesday.

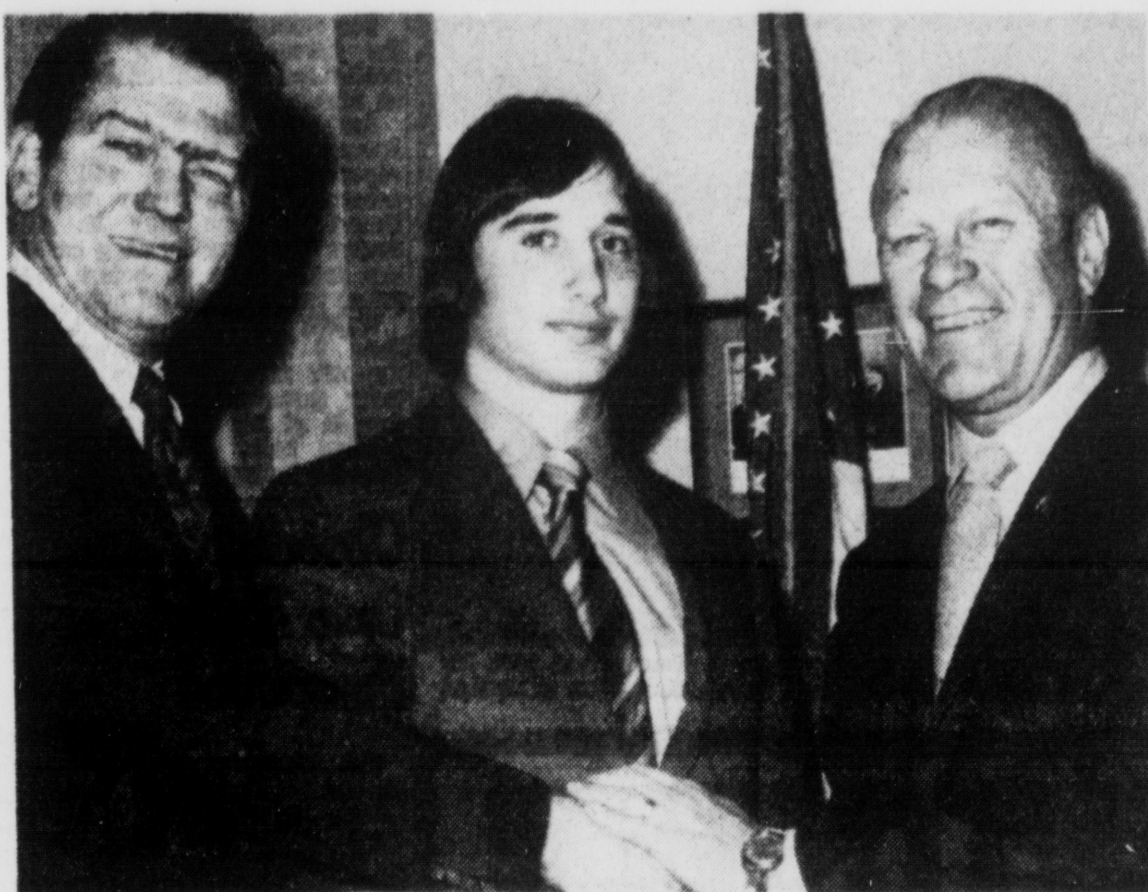

"To me it would be most fitting and appropriate that the new FBI Building, now nearing completion, should bear the former Director's name," Representative Fish said. "This great law enforcement officer, served his nation with devotion and dignity, and we all mourn his passing. This new home of the FBI stands as a symbol of all that he accomplished in his lifetime."

Hoover became FBI Director in 1924 and served under eight different Presidents—Coolidge, Hoover, Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon. During his tenure, the Bureau was transformed into an efficient crime fighting force that earned worldwide respect.

"Director Hoover was a man of great integrity. He was incorruptible. He was unswerving in his devotion to duty. I cannot think of any other American, in my lifetime, who served his Nation more faithfully or steadfastly," Fish concluded.

In the photo on the right, Fish and House Minority Leader, Gerald Ford are shown with Ronald Hall of High Falls. Ronald was elected "Congressman for the Day" in a 12 school competition sponsored by the Ulster County Legislature. While in Washington, Ronald met with Speaker of the House, Carl Albert; Minority Leader, Ford; and Rep. John Anderson, as well as attending Congressman Fish's Judiciary Subcommittee hearings and sessions of the House and Senate.

Man Injured In Mishap

A Mt. Tremper man was injured shortly before 3:15 p.m. Monday when he was apparently hit by a car as he was walking across Broadway at Dederick Street in Kingston.

Police reported the pedestrian, Arthur Barone, 65, of Wittenberg Road, was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for injuries of the right knee and left elbow.

Barone reportedly stepped from behind a stopped vehicle into the path of a car operated by Barry Kelly, 18, of 66 East Chester Street, who said he was southbound on Broadway at the time of the mishap.

Two men were injured early Sunday when the car in which they were riding apparently hit a utility pole on Malden Avenue, Saugerties. The vehicle reportedly was operated by Joseph McCutcheon, 23, of Box 409A, Saugerties. He was accompanied by Robert Quick, 23, of Russell Street, Saugerties, according to reports. Both men were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service.

Police Find Woman Dead

CORNWALL, N.Y. (AP) — Marie Weyan, 77, of Cornwall, was found dead in her bedroom Monday night, apparently the victim of a rifle shot, village police reported.

Police said a bullet was lodged in the woman's neck. They said a bullet from a high-powered rifle came through the rear of the Weyman home.

Justifiable Homicide Is Ruled

KINGSTON — Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser has ruled that the cause of death of Henry Wojcik, 26, of Kerhokson, who was shot through the head Sunday night by a state trooper after the man allegedly threatened to kill his two daughters, was due to massive cerebral hemorrhages resulting from a "justifiable homicide."

The ruling was returned after the coroner had an autopsy performed at Kingston Hospital on Monday.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph J. Traficanti Jr. reported the case will be presented to an Ulster County Grand Jury on May 18. All deaths involving shooting cases are required to go before the grand jury, an official noted. Wojcik was fatally shot by Zone 3 Sergeant Stanley M. Kowalik after the man reportedly threatened to slash the throats of his children with a hunting knife and refused to drop the knife and surrender.

Obscenity Case Again Postponed

KINGSTON — The obscenity case pending against 22-year-old Richard Locke, described as a sales clerk at the Adult Book Store at 702 Broadway which had been the scene of police raids in 1971 and earlier this year, was postponed Monday by City Judge Hubert A. Richter for six months.

Locke was arrested by detectives on the night of Feb. 9 charged with obscenity second degree. Police said at the time of the arrest that a detective went to the upper Broadway book store and allegedly purchased three magazines. Authorities said the retail price of the books ranged from $5 to $7.50.

Detectives said in their opinion the books were obscene. Locke told The Freeman prior to his arrest that the acts portrayed in the three books were "stimulated" and he contended that they could not be classified as obscene.

During the raid last February at the store, police confiscated more than 2,000 books and magazines in addition to a number of "novelties."

Also surviving is one niece. Funeral services Thursday 11 a.m. at the Lasher Funeral Home Inc., Woodstock. Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Investigate Burglary

KINGSTON — An apparent burglary over the weekend in this city, was cited by police who reported an entry had been made at the Pilgrim Furniture Company building at 107 Greenkill Avenue. Missing from the establishment were tools valued at $700.

Detectives said entry was gained by breaking a window leading to the bookkeeping office. The place was ransacked and investigation disclosed that the loot taken consisting of a skill saw, three power drills valued at $100 each, a power screwdriver and a jigsaw worth $150.

The burglary was discovered when management reported for work Monday morning, police said.

Rotary Club Plans Day

KINGSTON — The Kingston Rotary Club will sponsor its third annual Employment Information Day, May 11 at the New York State Armory, South Manor Avenue. The event is planned to give high school seniors an opportunity to meet with area business and industry representatives. Interviews will be conducted 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. In addition there will be displays.

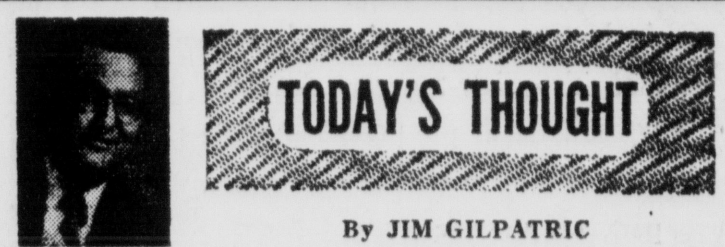

Employment Information Day is designed for all county high school seniors who do not have college plans and will be graduated this June. Seniors are expected to attend Saugerties, Rondout Valley, Ontario, Wallkill, Kingston, Ellenville, Highland and Coleman High Schools.

Paltz Concert Set Tonight

NEW PALTZ — The College-Community Symphony Orchestra will present its final concert of the season tonight, at the State University College at New Paltz.

Among the works to be performed is Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 4. The Orchestra will also play Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Ralph Vaughan Williams' English Folk Song Suite, and a contemporary work for solo trumpet and strings entitled Prayer of Saint Gregory, by Alan Govhans.

There is no charge for admission to this concert, which will begin at 8:30 p.m., and will be presented in Room 100 of the Lecture Center. This concert is being made possible in part by a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Many artists, writers, poets, politicians, heads of nations and other prominent people have proudly and publicly shown affection to his or her mother. Millions of other people also show pride, concern, love and affection for her—and especially on Mother's Day. Exceptions are rare.

Adventures and misadventures of childhood are only half remembered. But mother's love, concern, discipline, decisions, example, hopes and prayers are forever remembered. Her enduring love is timeless, even when her children face condemnation—justified or not. Her own memories center on good things, especially memories of the smiling and sometimes crying children that once filled her life.

Would it not be nice on Mother's Day to say, "Gee, Mother, you're wonderful"? If she is no longer with you, would it not be nice to bring a measure of happiness to some one else's mother as a tribute to your own?

Highland Concert This Thursday

Approximately 125 Highland High School students will perform in the annual Spring Concert, Thursday, May 11 at 8:15 p.m. The performance, to be held in the high school auditorium, will include the 65 member High School Mixed Chorus, the Choraleers Girls

Vocal Ensemble and the 63-member Highlander Band. Also performing will be "The Liquid Watch," a vocal sextet. Selections to be performed include "Sunrise Sunset" from "Fiddler on the Roof," the "Exodus Song" by the High School Mixed Chorus, "If I Were a Carpenter" and "You Only Live Twice" will be sung by the Choraleers. The Liquid Watch will sing "Never My Love" and "Reason to Believe."

The Highlander Band will conclude the program with four selections spanning three centuries. Frescobaldi's "Toccata and Fugue," written about 1600, will be the band's first selection. The Band will conclude the program with the contemporary "Jesus Christ Superstar," complete with electric guitar played by Mark Peplon and trap drum set played by Jeff Jones.

The public is invited. There will be a small admission charge to defray expenses. Children of elementary and middle school age will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

PLANNING WILTWYCK'S SOCIAL SEASON — The social season at Wiltwyck Country Club got off to a swinging start when various committee chairmen met to discuss plans. Meeting at the clubhouse last week were (L-R) Mrs. William Hulsair, secretary; Mrs. Ivan Whitmore, house chairman; Mrs. Gerald Overbagh, general chairman; Mrs. Seymour Werbalowsky, publicity chairman; Mrs. Frank Finnegan, social chairman. The golf enthusiasts compiled a list of upcoming events. Details will be announced. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

In-School Concert Given in West Hurley

A Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society "In School Concert," sponsored by West Hurley Library, was given Friday, Apr. 28 for an enthusiastic audience of third through sixth grade students at West Hurley Elementary School.

Tom Adair, artistic director of Poughkeepsie Ballet Theatre, directed the program, and Mrs. Ralph Preiss lectured on the history of ballet and the training of the dancer.

Performers were Tom Adair, Susan McGrath, Robin Preiss, John Study and Charles Grant. Jeanne Fitzgerald accompanied them at the piano.

The program included a demonstration dance of the pas de deux from "Swan Lake," the dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy from the "Nutcracker," and a modern dance piece choreographed by Charles Grant.

After the program there was a question-answer session.

The ballet portion of the program was made possible by the New York State Council of the Arts.

Zonta Extends Honorary Card To Broadcaster

Sister Mary Charles, president of Zonta Club of Kingston, and Colleen Crespi, immediate past president, have announced that Mary Margaret McBride of West Shokan has been accepted by the membership as an Honorary Member.

The elder citizen has spent a lifetime in the communications field, has authored several books and although in retirement conducts a talk-show for WGHQ.

Zonta Club is currently concluding details on its WALKATHON scheduled for Saturday, May 20. More than 140 walkers will step off from the Ulster Shopping Plaza between the hours of 9-10 a.m. Concluding ceremonies are scheduled for the Kingston Shopping Plaza at 12 o'clock.

Belts Are Big

Belts are big this spring and summer. There's as much emphasis on the belt itself as on the buckle with new fabrics, embroideries and bright colors competing for attention. Many belts have artificial fruit or flowers attached for a look that goes way back to the forties.

Bridal pair beyond compare. Fine rings of 14K gold.

WHAT
QUALITY?

Remember that value is a matter of how much quality you get for the price you pay. We all want quality. We hope for value. We recommend that you compare. When you do, you will know that our quality is second to none. Our reputation is built on value.

Dear Parents: All Work, No Play?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior in high school (a boy) and I am an A-B student. I am active in sports and quite a few extracurricular activities.

My problem is my parents. They can't stand to see me do anything except study. The minute I get home from school my mother is on my back. "Go and do your homework!" Then she says, "I never had to tell your brother to do his homework."

My brother is five years older than I, was a straight A student, a real brain and a bookworm. He never did anything but study.

But, Abby, I am not my brother. My folks don't realize that plenty of parents would be tickled to death if their sons brought home the kind of grades I do. But, no, they're never satisfied.

How can I let my parents see how unfair they are being to me?

NUMBER TWO SON

DEAR SON: Parents can't be faulted for encouraging their children to work up to their potential, but never should one child be compared with a sibling. It creates resentment, hostility and kills incentive.

DEAR ABBY: Will you explain something to me? My wife has a full head of hair, yet she bought five different wigs!

I am bald, but when I suggested getting a hairpiece she hooted and said I was vain. Why? I have a reason, she hasn't.

DEAR JIM: She hooted because she's selfish, insensitive and behind the times. Get yourself a nifty hairpiece and "de-hoot" her.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the young man and his girl friend who were worried about the girl's ability to have children because she was a twin in a boy-girl twinning. (The boy had worked on a farm and knew that in the cases of twin calves, the female calf was unable to reproduce.)

We are the parents of TWO sets of boy-girl twins, born three and a half years apart. They are all married now, and their fertility records are as follows:

The oldest son has five children. His twin sister has four children. The second son has three children, and his twin sister has two children. That should settle that!

N. M. IN MINNESOTA

DEAR N. M.: Settled it is. And may your tribe increase. (Forgive me, Alan Guttmacher?)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a good job with a fast growing company and has climbed the ladder of success faster than most men his age. His salary is quite sufficient for our needs, and he has a very bright future with this organization.

Quite by accident I discovered that my husband has been stealing from his employer.

What should I do? I don't want to jeopardize the security of our family.

GRAND LARCENY

DEAR GRAND: Tell your husband what you've told me and urge him to go immediately to his employer with a confession and an offer to make restitution.

If he's reluctant, suggest that he consult a lawyer who can tell him exactly what he will face, should his crime be discovered before he gets around to confessing.

DEAR ABBY: Why do basically honest people cheat at bridge?

We are members of a bridge club, and one of the women in our foursome always keeps score, and almost all the time she wins the high score prize. As soon as the game is over, this woman makes a pretense of clearing off the table and she immediately destroys the score sheets.

This annoys all of us who have noticed it, and if she did not have otherwise lovable qualities we would drop her from the foursome.

Can you please give us some ideas on how we can straighten her out without offending her or causing her embarrassment?

SUCH GOOD FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: Basically honest people do not cheat at anything. Either keep this lady with the "otherwise lovable qualities" honest by relieving her of the score keeping job or drop her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. K. IN S. F.: If you have to ask if you are "old" enough... the answer is NO!

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

KHS Crowns 1972 May Queen

1972 May Queen and Her Court.

The annual celebration of May Day at Kingston High School took place Friday, May 5. Highlighting the ceremony was the coronation of May Queen Jayne McElrath by the Prime Minister, Senior Class President Steve Cline.

Queen Jayne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell McElrath of 11 Brookside Court, Lake Katrine. Among her KHS activities, she was captain of the varsity cheerleading squad and a member of the National Honor Society. She is planning to attend State University of New York at Buffalo.

This year's Maid of Honor is Maureen Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly of 375 Albany Avenue, Kingston. Members of the May Court include Joann Potter, Marie Barton, Patti Clark, Roxanne Holt, Gloria Levine, and Marie Yonnetti. The banner of the Class of 1972 was carried by varsity captains, James Woodard and John Gorman. T. C. and Nicki Badalato, friends of the May Queen, carried the Queen's train. Diane Harrison, Miss McElrath's neighbor, served as crown bearer.

After the procession of the Queen and Court, Prime Minister Cline delivered a brief talk before crowning the Queen. Queen Jayne also presented an address. The presentation of roses to the varsity team captains took place following the speeches.

Entertainment was provided by Mark Rust, Carolyn O'Dell, Michele Gardner, Richard Gossett, Debbie Richter, and the Kingston High School Twirlers. Members of Leaders Club presented an exhibition of folk dancing before their annual May Pole Dance. The Reception concluded the ceremony which was viewed by an enthusiastic audience.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

How do you usually peel a carrot? Do you use a potato peeler? I think most people do, but let me ask you this: When peeling the carrot, which end do you hold in your hand — the big end of the carrot or the root end?

If you are like most folks you just automatically hold the big end and peel down.

—Well, give this a try... hold the small end of the carrot with your fingers and peel toward the largest end.

I think you'll find it is so much easier to peel this way — not nearly as much chance of getting a nicked finger and, moreover, the carrot doesn't bend while peeling.

But please don't take my word for it — try both ways and see for yourself.

ANGIE H.

You are so right, Angie — but I must admit I haven't always done mine this way either — guess we all are never to old to learn.

Take it from me, gals, it's worth a try.

HELOISE

Letter of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband and I were newlyweds and had our very first spat...

So, I decided to make amends, and, since next to me, his necktie collection meant the most to him (I thought at the time) — I decided to surprise him and wash all his ties in the washing machine. I tossed them in and went blissfully about my other duties.

When I took them out of the machine — need I say more?

Would you believe, Heloise, he didn't speak to me for one solid week?

And then it was only to let me know that I had to replace each and every tie on what I could save from our already too-meager grocery budget. Woe was my middle name.

OLDER AND WISER

Dear Heloise: When the children are asking for dessert, whip this one up as a surprise.

Use half a can (or less) of evaporated milk chilled about twenty minutes in the freezer. Sweeten to taste and then gently fold in a few tablespoons of strawberry preserves (or whatever you have on hand).

My children love this (all five of them) and it is most economical... especially for large families.

Depots Established for Paper Drive, May 20-21

KINGSTON Major depots have been announced for the special newspaper recycling drive scheduled for May 20 and 21. Collection sites will be established in Kingston, Woodstock, Stone Ridge, West Hurley and the Town of Olive. The Environmental Task Force, the Ontario Lions Club and the Conservation Commissions of Marbletown and Rochester are spearheading the newspaper drive.

The Kingston depot will be located at the Britts parking lot in the Kingston Plaza on Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The depot at the Bradley Meadows Shopping Center in Woodstock will be open all day Saturday and until 3 p.m. Sunday. The depot at the Marbletown Town Hall on Route 209 in Stone Ridge will be open on Saturday only, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A depot at the West Hurley Methodist Church will be open Saturday from 1-3 p.m. and Sunday from 12-3 p.m.

Kingston's Department of Public Works will pick up paper at the home of shut-ins in the city on Saturday. Persons requesting such service should contact the DPW on Thursday or Friday before the drive. In cooperation with the special paper drive, the Town of Olive Highway Department will send a truck to pick up bundles of newspaper and magazines from town roadsides on Saturday. The bundles should be placed at the roadside by 9 a.m. Saturday.

A truck will be located at the Rosendale Shopping Center on May 13 and May 27 to collect newspapers and magazines, and the second and fourth Saturdays of each month thereafter.

In addition to 25 pound bundles tied with cord, depots can now accept the same weight of paper bags or cartons. Loose newspapers or magazines will not be collected.

The recycling drive May 20 and 21 is for newspapers and magazines only; drives for glass and aluminum will be held in coming months.

Sawyer Softball League Has Biggest Entry Ever

SAUGERTIES at the foul lines. Jack Keeley is league president and Les Ostoyic, vice president, for the eighth straight year, a span in which the league has more than tripled in size.

Keeley and Ostoyic will work within a new administrative setup in which a league governing board of Division representatives will act with them to rule on protests, requested postponements, player releases and penalties for ejected players.

The reps elected from each division are: Red Division, Bob McCaig; White — Bob (Mouse) Wolven; Blue — George Rosner.

The success of softball in Saugerties, both men and girls, has resulted in a crucial need for playing areas. On top of the new 5-day, 12-game per week schedule for men, from all signs the SAA's Lassies League will expand from six to at least eight teams.

Last season the competition was handled by triple-headers on Friday, but expansion will create an obvious need for another diamond and another night of play. Another advance in the men's loop is an outpouring of teenage participants. Players of undergraduate age were relatively rare in the league in past seasons, but the 1972 league will have four full teams of teenagers and a sizeable number on many other squads.

One of the few outposts left for fast pitch softball, Saugerties has dropped it for the 1972 season. The league has rejected the lob-ball requirement, however, and will play with a restricted type of pitching, permitting the pitcher to throw as hard as possible with a mere pendulum swing of his arm.

Because of tremendous local interest in the sport, it has become necessary to restrict use of non-resident players. Only those who previously participated in the SSL are eligible and no team may use more than 4 non-residents in their lineup at any one time.

The league will be operating this year with a spanking new fence, vinyl-coated, five feet in height and some 20 feet deeper

Man Arrested For Assault

TOWN OF HURLEY

Accused of assaulting another man with a piece of firewood and reportedly causing head injuries, Leroy Burton, 50, of Route 1, Box 41, Spillway Road, Hurley, was arrested Monday night by deputy sheriffs.

Burton was arraigned on a charge of third degree assault before Town Justice C. H. Dumond who fixed bail at $100 and adjourned the case until today. In lieu of posting bail the defendant was committed to the county jail.

The sheriff's office said the complainant, Joseph Matula of this township, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for head injuries. The arrest was made by Deputies Christopher Jones and Daniel Cronan.

Rangers Will Need A Perfect Effort

BOSTON (UPI) — Coach Emile Francis admits there's only one way his New York Rangers can make a comeback against the Boston Bruins: play perfect, mistake-free hockey for the next three games.

The Rangers face elimination here tonight as the Bruins, who hold a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series for the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup championship, need only one more win to wrap up their fifth title since entering the league in the 1924-25 season.

Only once before in NHL history — and that was in 1942, 30 years ago — has a club fallen behind three games to one and come on to win the Stanley Cup. The Toronto Maple Leafs did it that year, dropping the first three against Detroit and winning the next four.

"We'll have to come up with a superior effort," Francis told a news conference Monday. "We'll have to start right in and play perfect hockey. We can't make any mistakes. I think we can do it."

So far in the series the Rangers have neutralized Boston's high scoring center, Phil Esposito, with what Francis called a "combination of Walt Tkaczuk playing him very close and some great goaltending."

Esposito, who scored 66 times in the regular season and had nine goals in the first two playoff rounds, has leveled 27 shots at the New York net but has failed to score against the Rangers.

"I'm getting my shots," Esposito said. "They just won't go in. But as long as we win and I'm getting my shots, I don't care. If we were losing and I didn't score, then it would be a problem. But we're winning, so who cares?"

Francis said he expected to make a decision sometime today on who would be in the nets for the fifth game while Boston coach Tom Johnson said he would break up his rotation and send Eddie Johnston against New York for the second straight game.

"Eddie Johnston gave us super goaltending," Johnson said of his number two netminder's work in Sunday's 3-2 win at New York. Johnston also won the second game of the series for Boston, 2-1, on home ice.

The Bruins' most effective goalie in the regular season, Gerry Cheevers, had a narrow escape in Boston's 6-5 opening game victory and dropped a 5-2 decision in New York last Thursday.

Francis said he had made no decision on whether he would shake up his forward lines for the duration of the series, but he left that possibility open.

He said he switched his defensive alignment around in the third period of Sunday's

Milton Richman Says

Wilt Won the Fans

By MILTON RICHMAN, UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain is wrong.

He says "let's face it, nobody likes Goliath," and he firmly believes that, too, because at 7 foot 2 it's rather easy for him to identify with the legendary giant out of the Old Testament who went in an odds-on choice against Davi and came out with nothing left.

Chamberlain has this feeling that his height alienates people, makes them resent him.

This could be purely in his mind. There are others as big as he is in basketball and they don't seem to feel the way he does. Besides, I've never seen people show any resentment toward the tall man in the circus. If anything, they seem to feel for him.

The only reason this comes up now is because of some of the sentiments expressed since the Los Angeles Lakers beat the New York Knicks for the NBA championship Sunday.

Most Sentiments Pro-Wilt

Most of these sentiments are bravely pro-Chamberlain. And all of them aren't necessarily concerned with his showing on the court.

As the performer designated MVP in the playoffs, the bearded Chamberlain will receive a new car from Sport Magazine but I think he has won far more than that.

He has won the people. They don't seem to feel Goliath is such a bad guy at all. That's a little more important, the way I see it, than winning a car.

Winning the title did wonders for Jerry West, a fellow who never had really experienced anything like that before. It did even more for Wilt Chamberlain, who has.

Jerry West is the same to the Los Angeles Lakers as Brooks Robinson is to the Baltimore Orioles. The rest of the guys on the ball club are crazy about him.

But if you ask most of them whom they feel was primarily responsible for bringing the Los Angeles Lakers their first world championship they pretty much agree it was one man—Wilt Chamberlain.

"Finest Guard"

"I think Jerry West is the finest guard I've ever played with, especially as far as quarterbacking a club is concerned," says Happy Hairston. "But I think when we've

The condition first bothered Aaron about one and one-half weeks ago. He sat out Sunday's game against the Cardinals, saying, "I couldn't sleep at all Saturday night. I tossed and turned all night and even a sedative didn't help the pain."

Despite the pain, Aaron played and belted home runs in the Friday and Saturday games against St. Louis, giving him six for the season and 645 for his career.

Aaron Hit by Arthritis

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hank Aaron's playing status has been shied to a day-by-day basis due to a painful arthritic condition in his neck, the Atlanta Braves said Monday.

The slugging first baseman, who is only one home run behind San Francisco's Willie Mays in career homers, missed two games due to the pain on the "Braves' just-completed road trip.

needed performances outside the so-called glamor areas, like blocking shots, intimidating players driving down the lane and things like that, it was always Wilt who did it for us. My feeling is simply this: in the NBA you can only go as far as your big man takes you. Everybody knows who our big man is. He took us all the way, and he did it by completely and totally sacrificing himself."

Sacrificing himself how?

"Offensively," answers Happy Hairston.

"Once again he led the league in rebounds," he elaborates. "People take a thing like that for granted. It's a phenomenal feat. I don't care what anyone says, Wilt isn't only our captain, he's the leader of our club in every sense of the word."

Many Adjustments

Chamberlain has been obliged to make many adjustments the past few years. Alex Hannum wanted him to play one way, Bill Van Breda Kolff another, Joe Mullaney another and Bill Sharman still another. All those adjustments took something out of him. He says so.

"I don't know any other athlete, who has been forced to change so much and then get ridiculed for doing it," Chamberlain says. "I am forced to change this, change that, change this. You know, if you're a scorer and you're asked not to score, then you're asked to score, then not to score again, it gets a little ridiculous. I know changes like that are necessary sometimes, but the point is it doesn't make it any easier."

That's absolutely true. Maybe others realize that too besides Wilt Chamberlain. Maybe that's why they don't feel Goliath is such a bad guy anymore.

Call Stot the Stopper

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins ran into the New York Yankee stopper again.

Mel Stottlemyre, who holds a 17-10 major league record against the Twins, stopped Minnesota's five-game winning streak Monday with a 5-3 victory in which he drove in the winning run.

—Twins' young ace Bert Blyleven's 10-game winning streak.

—Steve Braun's nine-game hitting streak.

—Bob Darwin, who the last time he faced the Yankee pitcher slugged a game-winning homer.

"Every game I've ever pitched against the Twins has been like tonight—the breaks decide the game," said Stottlemyre, who needed relief help in the eighth inning to post his second straight victory against three losses.

"I can't remember a lopsided score. We got the breaks and I got my pitches where I wanted them."

Stottlemyre struck out Darwin, who has six home runs and 20 runs batted in to lead both departments, three straight times after getting him to ground out in the second inning.

Outfielder Johnny Callison got his first home run as a Yankee. Stottlemyre drove in a run with a double and Gene Michael set up a two-run, go-ahead in the fifth with 'is triple.

Michael's hit drove in Rich McKinney from first, and saw Michael streak for home when Rod Carew's relay bounced past third. Hal Lanier drove in the fifth run with a run-scoring single after Thurmon Munson walked and stole second in the ninth.

"Stottlemyre was good... tough," said Twins' manager Bill Rigney. "But I thought our guy (Blyleven) was super until to 4-2.

Sparky Lyle came in and induced pinch hitter Rick Renick to bounce into a force out to end the inning.

Earlier, Rod Carew's triple drove in Danny Thompson for a 1-0 Twins' lead with none out in the third.

"I got a big lift, and I'm sure the team did too, when I got out of that inning with the run," Pete Mikkelsen, downed the ner on third and no outs," said Expos for the Dodgers, 5-2.

LA scored four runs in the second inning on singles by Willie Davis and Willie Mays, a sacrifice fly by Jim Crawford, a single by Dick Dietz and Steve Garvey's two-run home.

In Monday night's only other major league action, Claude Osteen, with relief help from win-started the last round two strokes behind Devlin, faded to a two-over 74 and eighth place a 282.

Devlin, 34, who won the Colonial at Fort Worth, Tex., in 1966 and the Byron Nelson Classic in Dallas in 1969, clinched this tournament with a two-foot birdie putt on No. 17 Monday with a 10-under-par 278 in the $125,000 Houston Open.

He finished with an even par 36-36—72 over the 6,998-yard Westwood Country Club course to win by two strokes over Doug Sanders, Lou Graham and Tommy Aaron.

Sanders had four straight subpar rounds, including a 71 the final day, to finish at 280 along with Aaron, who had three straight 69s after an opening 73, and Graham, whose 67 equaled the best round of the final day. Hale Irwin, who

Devlin Wins Texas Triple

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bruce Devlin, whose golfing career was saved by a Houston doctor seven years ago, headed to the Colonial Invitational today with the Texas Triple Crown in his golf bag.

Devlin won the third leg of the Texas golfing sweepstakes Monday with a 10-under-par 278 in the $125,000 Houston Open.

The only other golfer to win the three Texas tournaments was Roberto De Vicenzo, who won the Colonial in 1957, the Nelson in 1966 and Houston in 1968.

"No. 14 was the turning point for me," Devlin said. "I hit a bad three wood into the green. The ball was plugged terribly (in a bunker). I couldn't use a sand wedge, so I had a pitching wedge and all I could do was come straight down on the ball and chop it out.

"The ball popped out to one foot from the hole. I could stand there and not put it any closer. I could easily have made a five from where I was (40 feet from the cup) and I made a three. That was the difference."

The victory, his eighth since joining the tour in 1962, was worth $25,000, but it wasn't as important to him as a pro-am before the Houston Open in 1965. That was the day he played with Dr. Alfred Knoll and, at age 27, came dragging down the 18th fairway 50 yards behind the 55-year-old doctor.

When Dr. Knoll chided him about it, Devlin showed the doctor the severe case of varicose veins. Knoll, a surgeon, told him how they could be cured with an operation.

Devlin called 10 days later from Philadelphia and asked Knoll if he would perform the operation and Knoll agreed. In three previous years on the tour, Devlin had won about $40,000, but after the operation he went on to win $67,657 in 1965.

Highland, Marlboro, Wallkill Track Winners

NEW PALTZ There was an official at a Highland track meet, but he didn't do the Big Blue too much good. A seeming victory by Paul Canino in the high hurdles was disallowed and awarded to New Paltz's Mike Clinton because the Highland ace had clipped one too many jumps. But it made no difference in the final result. Highland took it 71-65.

The Dukes and the Panthers just took things easy with overwhelming wins over Ellenville and Onteora in other UCL track action. Roundout at Coleman was postponed.

"I was very pleased with the officiating," said Highland's

Mike Hinchey after the meet. "He really knew his stuff, and the meet ran a lot better with him there."

The calls evened up in the 220, however, when the Hugie sprinter was disqualified for cutting off another runner. Highland's Joe Scandariato got the nod in 24.1.

Back in the hurdles, it just wasn't Canino's day. Ahead in the 180 lows, he fell before the finish and Huguenot Charlie Johnson streaked by for the victory. Canino finished second in his first winless meet of the season.

Ralph Perry paced the eventual Highland victory with a double win. He took the 440 in fast time then turned in the best long jump of the UCLAL his year, 21.7, to win that event. Teammate John Barrington nabbed his usual pair, the 100 and triple jump for the winners.

Bucky Sutter, in the 880 and high jump, and Judd Grosshans in the mile and pole vault, picked up firsts for New Paltz. Marlboro bicked up 12 firsts to Ellenville's two and buried the visitors 90-46. George Salinovich was the meet's only double victor with a 21.3 time in the low hurdles and an 18-10 long jump.

Ira Hill took the 440 in 55.5, and Angelo won the high jump at 5-5 to save the Ellies from total embarrassment.

Sweeping the low hurdles, mile, shot and discus events, the potent Panthers rolled up a 103-33 score on overmatched Onteora. Bob Rutigliano took both hurdles for Wallkill and Rick Lopez won the 880 and mile races to pace the win.

Onteora winners were Eli Ashley who nipped Larry Prisco in the 100, John Coomes, who beat Al Castillo in the 220 and Holger Sternberg in the high jump. The OCS 880 relay team clocked 1:40.7 to take that event.

IN PALM OF HIS HAND — Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joe Frazier has Mark Durham, 4, in the palm of his hand as the two hold buttons, kicking off the Yancey Durham Jr. National Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation campaign against the disease. Mark, the son of Frazier's manager, Yancey Durham, is himself a victim of sickle cell anemia. (UPI)

Has Ali Lost Jab?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, visiting New York to help the Yancey Durham National Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation, said Monday that he thought Muhammad Ali had lost much of his jabbing ability.

"If I saw a few rounds of his bout with George Chuvalo on TV," said Frazier, "He wasn't throwing those quick jabs the way he used to throw them."

Frazier confirmed that he will donate half his purse from his title defense against Ron Stander in Omaha, Neb., May 25, to the Durham Foundation. The foundation was formed by Joe's manager in 1971 shortly after Durham discovered that his four-year-old son, Mark, is suffering with the blood disease. Durham will donate his entire end of the gate to the foundation.

Frazier, Durham and Durham's son drove to New York from Philadelphia in a mobile unit for testing and diagnosing sickle cell anemia. The unit is one of many which the foundation hopes to make available free of charge in as many communities as possible.

Durham, speculating on the much-discussed return bout between Frazier and Ali, indicated that it would not take place until 1973.

New Paltz Hands Liberty First Defeat

Marlboro Rally Stuns Highland

MARLBORO The game is never over until the last man is out. Believe it? Lem Atkins does. The Highland baseball coach watched as his team carried a 6-0 lead into the last inning and came out on the short end of a 7-6 score as Marlboro rallied to post their ninth win of the year.

Ralph Calderone, the Wizard of Wallkill, continued his mastery of the mound with a no-hit, 9-4 win over Onteora, and New Paltz handed Liberty its first defeat of the season, 9-5 in other games on the light UCLAL schedule. Pine Bush at Rondout and Red Hook at Ellenville were rained out.

The results left the UCLAL standings unchanged. Liberty (6-1) leads the Northern Division and Marlboro (8-1) is atop the Southern Division.

There was already one out when John Bunt banged a single to score Mike Lofaro from second with the Dukes' first run. If the Big Blue had any idea how long it would take them to get the next two they would have gone home right then. They never got them at all.

An error put Dukes on first and third, a single by Bob Salvano drove one in, and a hit batsman signaled the end for Highland pitcher Carlos Rodriguez. Dennis Bragg took over on the mound, but another run scored on a fielder's choice and, Charlie Jones went to first on the play. It was 6-2.

Then Bragg built his own coffin. He walked Lew Rhoades to load the bases, passed Tom Coupart to force a run home and issued another base-on-balls to Lofaro to make it a slim one-run lead.

Marlboro first baseman Duane Martin ended the game with a two-run double.

Bragg got tagged with the loss, and Vince Mannese, despite surrendering runs in the second and third and four in the fourth, was awarded the victory.

Onteora couldn't get a hit off Calderone, but that isn't unusual. The Panther hurler is having quite a year. After losing a two-hitter in the beginning of the season, Calderone posted another two-hitter and two one-hitters, all shutouts, before facing the Indians.

A little wildness afforded OCS the opportunity to lead 4-2 after three innings. A hit batter and six walks by Calderone put the men on base, but a four-run Wallkill rallied in the fourth vaulted the Panthers into the lead for good. Lou Scott knocked in two in the inning with a single.

Calderone whiffed 10 Indians in beating Tom Sebald's nine strikeout performance.

With five runs in the second inning, Liberty looked serious another game. Steve Foster doubled, Ed Van Slyke walked and Jim Mance chased them both home with a single.

hit later Ron Meadow tripled another pair across before scoring himself on an error.

NEW PALTZ Buffalo State batters slugged away relentlessly at New Paltz State pitchers Sandy Strauss and Charlie Silverberg. The result was the Hawks' eighth loss of the year, an 11-1 debacle, on Monday.

Singles by Vince Scammacca and Tom Williams and an RBI double by Bob Moir for New Paltz in the fourth inning made it a 2-1 ballgame, but it was the only run the Hawks could manage. Buffalo came back with a pair in the fifth, three in the seventh and four in the ninth.

Strauss started on the mound for New Paltz, and though he fanned 11 batters in seven innings it simply wasn't stopping the visitors. Ron Dapier went the distance for Buffalo and picked up the win on a five hit performance. Two of the safeties went to Moir who led the sweep in singles.

This is the start of a tough week for John Hunter's squad. Lourdes is slated next, then Poughkeepsie on Wednesday.

Identification Cards

Order of Day for Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—General Manager Joe Brown said Monday he would issue identification cards to the Pittsburgh Pirates because of an incident in which pitcher Dock Ellis was sprayed with chemical made following an argument in Cincinnati.

Brown, in a statement backing Ellis, said the allegations that Ellis was semi-intoxicated and carrying a bottle of wine when he argued with a guard at Riverfront Stadium last Friday night were "foreign to his nature."

To my knowledge, no stadium in the National League requires that players produce identification cards as the Cincinnati guard did on this occasion for the first time," Brown said.

While statements have emanated from several sources, no allegation can persuade me that Ellis carried a bottle to the stadium or that he was semi-intoxicated as charged."

David Hatter, a private security guard at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati, sprayed Ellis with mace and pulled his gun on the pitcher last Friday night when Ellis was unable to produce identification before the game between the Pirates and Reds. Hatter charged Ellis threatened him with a bottle.

"While Ellis is certainly an advocate of free speech, and there have been occasions when I would have preferred that he remain silent, physical threats and the intemperate use of alcohol are foreign to his nature," Brown said.

Brown said identification cards would be issued to the Pirates' players, bearing their pictures, before Tuesday night's game at Atlanta.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, May 10

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when those who have any influence over you can be wise to make sure you do not get upset if critical comments are made to you. Refrain from saying or doing anything that could hurt the feelings, or downgrade anyone else. Be gentle.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Rules and regulations should be followed to the letter now and temper controlled, or you get into real trouble. Not the right day to contact that influential person, whatever your reason. Wait a better day.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you try to get out of promises you have made to others, you can certainly get into a peck of trouble, so be sure you show you are conscientious instead. Others are in a bad mood, therefore do not look for praise today. Tomorrow all changes.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You waver between handling important affairs and going out for fun, so if you plan your time wisely, you can do some of both. Make sure you do not bring enemies together, or your day will be ruined. Dress well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you follow through with what bigwigs expect of you, you make big headway today, even though you do not understand their motives. They require a loyal worker now. Save some time for mate in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) With those good ideas buzzing through your head, you hardly know which to work on first, but if you sift the wheat from the chaff, all is fine. Make sure you have the facts and information you need for success with them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get right at the responsibilities ahead of you and carry through efficiently so higher-ups will be pleased and extend right benefits, fighting with loved one could lead to separation you do not want. Cool it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have an associate who wants to fly off into outlets that he knows nothing about, so of both. Make sure you do not the present good partnership. Use tact, good sense, not arguments. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Tackle all that work in a most persevering and clever fashion and get it behind you quickly. A little time spent at exercise, etc., can improve your health immensely. Don't get discouraged.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you are extravagant where fun and pleasure are concerned, you find they soon lose their flavor. Being particularly devoted to closest tie pays off in big dividends now. Much happiness for both.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to use tact and diplomacy at home if you want to avoid a big argument possible today, or tonight. Get more order around you and please all. A short trip can now be planned carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show others you can control temper regardless of what may or may not come up to test you. One who should be concerned only with your work is trying to hem you in. Cleverly avoid him or her.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you spend too much for the pleasure you want, you find it backfires on you, so keep sane. Listen to what a clever person in business has to suggest for your advancement. Thank.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will

Quick Quiz

Q — What was the verdict in the famed Scopes evolution trial held in 1925?

A — John Scopes was found guilty and fined $100 and costs. The fine was never paid.

Q — Which two heavyweight boxing champions retired undefeated and did not attempt a comeback?

A — Gene Tunney and Rocky Marciano.

Q — Do turtles have teeth?

A — No. But the jaws have horny edges that can cut hard substances.

Q — Which two states were admitted to the Union on the same day?

A — North and South Dakota.

Q — How many stories does the Empire State Building in New York have?

A — 102 stories.

Q — What city occupies the site of ancient Carthage?

A — Tunis, capital of Tunisia.

Barbs

By PHIL PASTORET

People with chips on their shoulders are quite often blockheads.

Love may not make the world go 'round, but it does keep a lot of people dizzy.

One of the sure signs of spring is the sprouting of "Keep Off the Grass" signs.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BARE CHEST: (Q.) I am 18 and for the life of me I can't find a single dark hair on my chest. This really bugs me because all my friends have at least a few and some have a whole chest full.

My brother, who is two years younger than I, already has a few—enough to see. My father is very hairy chested. He says to be patient. I've run out of patience. Is there a doctor or a medicine that can make hair grow on my chest?—Beating My Breast in Connecticut.

(A.) Be calm. If you are going to get a hairy chest you will get it. If you aren't you won't. No doctor or medicine can put hair there. Only nature can.

The chances that nature will come through for you seem to be good because of your father's example. But if nature fails you, concentrate on your other good points.

WIRES: (Q.) I want to wear wire glasses, but my mother says people look weird in them. I tell her some people do, some people don't. My mother also says they cost more. What can I do? I really want them.—Same Old Glasses in Florida.

(A.) Wire frames are quite popular now and look good on girls with the right kind of faces. They are light and comfortable.

You would have to get new frames, but aside from that the expense would not be formidable. Dressy, attractive glasses frames in any style are not cheap.

Your mother probably thinks wires look weird simply because they are different. Ask her to go frame shopping with you and see how you would look in them. You might look great. I hope you will.

Original Drama... Rare Sight

NEW YORK (AP) — Original drama, particularly the drama that has become in the past few seasons just about the rarest sight on television. "Par-ticular Men," the first of a series on the Public Broadcasting stations, reminded us Monday night of the void.

Moring Mandel's two-hour drama seemed to be a delayed emotional reaction to the horror of atomic power, the dilemma of the wartime scientists who created it and the almost hysterical fear of communism during the late 1940s. It was the story of an introspective, pipe-puffing scientist, whose personal life was mixed up as were his emotions about the use of the killer-bomb he helped create.

The play made its point early and then wandered on for much too long, heaping flashback upon flashback, caricature upon caricature in confusing abundance. The acting, however, was great. Stacy Keach was utterly convincing as the remote and idealistic physicist confronted with an inquiry into his security clearance.

Mandel's script appeared to be more preachment than drama, more emotional than philosophical. It also had the advantages of more than two decades of hindsight.

Still for the serious-minded viewer, it was stimulating to be confronted with characters and ideas with which one could agree or disagree violently. Several more original dramas are coming along in the PBC summer schedule, a welcome interruption of the commercial networks' diet of reruns.

In ABC's half-hour special, "The Masks We Wear," Harry Reasoner and company took off on a light-hearted, optimistic investigation designed to explain the self-image of every individual—why middle-aged men are wearing their hair longer, why women like bikinis and why just about everybody is dieting.

The premise, using animation as well as film, was that our clothes, our manners and, to a lesser degree, our speech, are devices we use to present a soner, "plays many parts face to the world that to some throughout the day."

Crux of the short program was contained in a witty bit of animation first showing a young executive sitting composedly at his desk—until his boss walked into the office. He dissolved into a small boy. Left some work, he shifted into a scowling man in a prisoner's stripes. Walking down the hall, he met a pretty girl and turned into a knight in armor. His advances rebuffed, he scurried away in the shape of an ass. "Each of us," explained Reasoner, "plays many parts face to the world that to some throughout the day."

House Crime Committee Summons Race Officials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Crime Committee today summoned Michigan racing officials and a federal crime fighter to testify on the infiltration of underworld figures into professional sports.

Michigan Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley and Vincente Piersante, chief of the attorney general's Organized Crime Division, were the scheduled leadoff witnesses in a lengthy probe of alleged criminal influence on big league sports and horse racing.

The committee announced Monday that 16 persons have been subpoenaed, including six reputed underworld figures from Detroit and St. Louis.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., said that more than 100 witnesses would be called before the committee, which is investigating "both the ownership and operation of sports facilities and teams as well as rigging sporting events to effect gambling activity."

In addition to the alleged crime syndicate figures, Pepper said actor-singer Sammy Davis Jr. had agreed to tell the committee about "racing matters" and a subpoena had been issued for a second unidentified entertainer—speculated to be Frank Sinatra.

Pepper, chairman of the committee, declined to specify

Neo-Fascists Gain Triumph

ROME (UPI)—Neo-Fascists scored their greatest election triumph since World War II today and the West's largest Communist party suffered its first setback.

The results in the nation's sixth postwar national election sent shivers through the "Red Belt," the stronghold of communism, and elated the political heirs of Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini.

With 98 per cent of the senate vote counted, Neo-Fascists held 9.1 per cent of the vote—up 2.4 per cent from the 1968 election—and were assured at least 19 seats in the 322 seat senate. They held nine after the last election.

The Communists polled 28.4 per cent in the senate fight, down 1.6 per cent, and suffered their first reversal in any postwar election. The party remained the second largest in Italy, but the setbacks carried important psychological and political importance.

Despite its gains, there was no chance of Neo-Fascists taking an active role in the next government.

The Christian Democrats, the major postwar power in Italian politics, retained its position as the biggest single party and polled 38.1 per cent of the vote with a campaign centered on rejection of extremism and maintenance of law and order.

The three parties which joined the Christian Democrats in the center-left alliance which has governed Italy for a decade made slight advances.

Political experts said the prospects seemed brightest for continuing the center-left idea. But they said the Christian Democrats also might drop the Socialists from the next government and invite the Liberals to join them. This would shift the government base to the right.

Originally the elections were scheduled for early 1973, but President Giovanni Leone dissolved parliament and ordered elections now after ideological wrangling brought down the last center-left government.

A wide issue was whether or not voters would give Christian Democrats a solid enough mandate to form a government stable enough to combat social unrest, economic recession and political paralysis.

McGovern, Humphrey Rush to Capitol

United Press International
Hubert H. Humphrey and George McGovern abruptly suspended their presidential campaigns and rushed back to Washington today at the height of the new Vietnam crisis, despite their important head-to-head struggle in the Nebraska primary and a strong challenge to Humphrey from George C. Wallace in West Virginia. On the eve of the twin primaries Humphrey and McGovern denounced President Nixon's decision to mine the harbor at Haiphong and halt any shipping of military goods into North Vietnam.

The Vietnam crisis injected the Nebraska and West Virginia primaries with a new, unpredictable factor that could play a major role in the outcomes. McGovern and Humphrey the front-runners for the Democratic presidential nomination, watched Nixon's televised speech in Nebraska where they were completing short but arduous campaigns in a primary that could provide the winner with momentum for the contests still to come. Twenty-four delegate votes also were at stake in separate voting. Although both virtually ignored the state, Humphrey and

Wallace were matched in a "beauty contest" primary in West Virginia. In a separate race, Humphrey and McGovern were fighting for the major share of West Virginia's 35 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. "I cannot and do not support the President's actions," said

Humphrey, the former vice president and the 1968 Democratic presidential candidate. "His course is filled with unpredictable danger. In Lincoln, McGovern described Nixon's new initiatives as a "flirtation with World War III."

McGovern, who longer than any other candidate has called for a withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina, added "the President, who promised a generation of peace, has tonight made the world a more dangerous place."

Until Nixon made his speech, Humphrey and McGovern were rated in a dead heat in Nebraska. Although Humphrey had intended to ignore the primary until recent polls showed him running even, he reportedly was gaining momentum in a state once considered strictly McGovern territory.

Northern Offensive...A Chronology

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is a chronology of key developments in the five weeks since North Vietnamese forces began their offensive in South Vietnam.

April 3—North Vietnam claims "big victories."
April 4—Additional U.S. B-52s ordered to Southeast Asia.
April 5—Hanoi denounces retaliatory U.S. air strikes.
April 7—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says bombing will continue until North Vietnamese pull back.
April 8—U.S. 7th Fleet doubles force off Southeast Asia.
April 15—B-52s hit Hanoi and Haiphong, ending four-year de-escalation of strikes against major targets deep in the north.

April 25—U.S. announces it will resume Paris peace talks.
April 26—President Nixon announces in nationwide address that he will withdraw another 20,000 troops from Vietnam by July 1.
Pentagon says South Vietnamese have successfully absorbed invasion. Dr. Henry Kissinger, Nixon's national security advisor, returns from secret Moscow trip: no word on discussion of Vietnam.

May 1—South Vietnamese abandon Quang Tri. In Texas, Nixon says South Vietnamese will be able to hold, and pledges: "We are prepared to use our military and naval strength against military targets throughout North Vietnam."
May 3—Laird sends U.S. military specialists to Saigon to report on situation. President Thieu shakes up his military command. Kissinger confers secretly in Paris with Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam.
May 4—U.S. and North Vietnam call off Paris peace talks indefinitely.
May 7—Nixon summons Secretary of State William P. Rogers home from European trip.

May 8—Nixon meets with National Security Council, then, in an address to the nation, announces the mining of entrances to North Vietnamese ports. Nixon says U.S. forces will "take appropriate measures within the internal and claimed territorial waters of North Vietnam" to block delivery of supplies. He offers a withdrawal of all U.S. troops four months after all American prisoners are returned and there is an internationally supervised cease-fire in Indochina.

...College Protests Continue

By United Press International
An estimated 20 young persons were arrested today outside the federal building in downtown Binghamton as college students staged anti-war protests in various parts of the state.

About 100 protesters from the State University at Binghamton gathered in front of the building and, about an hour later, police began making arrests, apparently for blocking entrances. About 20 were hauled off in paddy wagons.

In New York City Monday night, about 500 demonstrators from Columbia University marched down Broadway following President Nixon's Vietnam speech and smashed windows at two banks.

An undetermined number of protesters received minor injuries when they clashed with police after hurling rocks through the windows of two First National City Bank branches.
